REFERENDUM ON PROHIBITION IS VOTED DOWN

INDEFINITE POSTPONEMENT GIVEN MEASURE

IN SPITE OF INCREASING WET SENTIMENT IN MINNESOTA HOUSE

ST. CLOUD AND ST. PAUL LEGISLATORS SOUGHT TO HAVE PEOPLE EXPRESS VIEWS

St. Paul, March 2.—(UP)—Despite increasing wet sentiment in the Minnesota house of representatives, electors were virtually denied a referendum on the prohibition question today following the 77 to 51 vote in the lower body on indefinite postponement on the wet and dry bill.

Rep. R. J. Quinlivan, St. Cloud, with the St. Paul authors of the referendum bill, asked his fellow legislators to give the people the right to express themselves on the entire prohibition question.

The representative from St. Cloud declared that the prohibition act was not operating successfully and that flagrant violations of the law made hypocrites of the people.

When Rep. W. I. Norton, Minneapolis, called the referendum idea, "poppycock," jokingly referred to it as a "straw vote," and said the laws of the state provided no referendum at the hands of the people, Quinlivan at once arose with a protest.

"Governments are instruments of the people," he said. "The right to rule is given them by the constitution of the United States and also by the declaration of independence. I do not believe the people should be denied the right to vote on this question."

Both sides quoted liberally from the Bible, the declaration of independence, the constitution and the laws of the state, during the four hour debate on the referendum question.

GIRL TO TELL STORY OF HER ALLEGED BETRAYAL

Stanley, N. D., March 2.—(UP)—Ready to take the witness stand and relate the story of her alleged betrayal, Miss Alice Holst, 19, a waitress, was placed on trial today for killing Willie Nafus, 23, an unwelcome admirer, at Stanley, N. D.

Miss Holst shot and killed young Nafus after summoning him from a Stanley billiard parlor.

Three days earlier, she charged, Nafus followed her from work, dragged her into an empty schoolhouse and attacked her.

The girl was engaged to be married. When her fiancé learned of gossip said to have been spread by Nafus about his conquest, he chided Miss Holst. Then she determined to kill Nafus, she said.

Stanley, N. D., March 2.—(UP)—The process of selecting a jury to try Miss Alice Holst, 19, Stanley, N. D., on a first degree murder charge was started here late today.

Miss Holst was arraigned today, charged with shooting to death Willie Nafus, 23, her alleged unwelcome lover. She entered a plea of not guilty as expected. Court then recessed and reconvened at 1:30 p. m. to pick the jury.

F. F. Wycoff, of Stanley, Miss Holst's attorney, said he would call 10 witnesses, including the girl. Fifteen witnesses have been summoned by the state.

Sixty prospective jurors formed the greater part of the crowd in the courtroom as the trial started.

Betrayal, gossip and finally the slaying were the high lights of the story Miss Holst was prepared to relate in her defense.

Judge George H. Moelling is hearing the trial.

MARCH LION STORMS HIT THE ATLANTIC SEABOARD

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—March lion storms of winter intensity hit the Atlantic seaboard today. The United States weather bureau ordered warnings displayed from Jacksonville, Fla., north to Boston.

A storm of "marked intensity" was centered near Cape Hatteras at 9:30 a. m., the bureau reported. It is moving northeastward with "further increased intensity, attended by strong northeast gales, probably reaching whole gale force near center."

From Jacksonville to Cape Hatteras, the warnings were for a north-west storm.

FARM BOY, LOVE LORN, KILLS SELF WITH SHOTGUN

Le Sueur Center, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—Despondent over unsuccessful love affairs, George Kakes, 21-year-old farm boy, blew his heart out with a shotgun charge early today.

The youth's riddled body was found in the barn of his brother Edward near here, when a search was instituted after an all night absence. George apparently had placed the butt of the gun on a sill, the muzzle against his heart and then touched off the trigger with a stick.

He was known to have written and mailed a letter to his sweetheart on Tuesday shortly before he disappeared.

FILIBUSTER ON AGAINST REED RESOLUTION

UNWEAKENED BY THREAT OF A 49-HOUR CONTINUOUS SESSION

RESOLUTION SEEKS RECOUNT OF PENNSYLVANIA PRIMARY BALLOTS

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent) Washington, March 2.—Unweakened by the threat of a 49-hour continuous session until adjournment at noon Friday, the filibuster against the Reed resolution for a recount of Pennsylvania primary ballots was renewed in the senate today.

The senate met at 11 A. M., an hour earlier than usual, in the hope the filibuster might be worn down by night, but there was no indication the end was near.

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, demanded a full reading of the journal of yesterday's proceedings, a ponderous document of some 50 pages reciting events in the senate.

The clerk thereupon took up the filibuster's work for them and read the document in a voice that could not be heard five feet from him.

NOTED PLAYERS ARE ALLEGED FORGETFUL ABOUT THEIR BILLS

Los Angeles, Calif., March 2.—(UP)—Lady Diana Manners, English peeress, famous as the nun in "The Miracle," the Morris Gest production, and Iris Tree, also of the cast, faced entanglement with the law here today.

In an attachment suit filed in municipal court in behalf of the Winchester Retail Stores, Inc., of Boston, it is alleged the noted players neglected to pay for clothing purchased in Boston in 1925.

Mrs. Andreas Ueland Struck and Killed by Automobile

Minneapolis, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—Mrs. Andreas Ueland, former president of the Minnesota League of Women Voters, was struck and killed by an automobile here late Tuesday while she was on her way home from the state capitol.

Active in the early days of the woman suffrage movement Mrs. Ueland had recently devoted her time to legislation in behalf of her sister workers.

Witnesses told police that the driver of the car which struck Mrs. Ueland had made every effort to avert the accident.

SEEK IDENTITY OF MAN DESECRATING AMERICAN FLAG

Austin, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—Legionnaires, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other public spirited citizens today were pushing an investigation to determine the identity of the person who desecrated an American flag here Wednesday.

The flag which had been raised at half mast in memory of deceased civil war veterans had been torn from the mast and thrown on the ground.

Veterans' feeling ran high and it was freely predicted that the culprit would be roughly handled if caught.

DEFENSE SEEKS TO PROVE CROARKIN IS A MADMAN

CHICAGO MAN CONFESSED TO ASSAULTING 6 YEAR OLD BOY

THEN HE BEAT HIM TO DEATH WITH A HAMMER

By BERT M. DEMBY (United Press Staff Correspondent) Chicago, March 2.—Evidence by which the state expects to send Harold J. Croarkin to the gallows for the murder of Walter Schmith, Jr., probably will be completed this afternoon.

The defense then will start its move towards attempting to prove, Croarkin, the son of a wealthy manufacturer, a mad-man. Croarkin has confessed to assaulting the six-year-old boy and later beating him to death with a hammer, and the basis of the entire defense case is expected to rest on an insanity plea.

Today's state witnesses probably will offer corroborative testimony. The state also is expected to introduce several alienists, who have viewed Croarkin in an attempt to prove that he is sane.

Yesterday Walter Schmith's 'gang' testified. Touseled haired youngsters of 12 and 14 years old recalled in the dim court room, boyhood scenes of the little "kid," as they referred to Walter.

They told how he had been playing in the neighborhood the afternoon he was slain. One boy mentioned he had seen Walter go to the Riding Academy barn—where his body was found—with a man and later heard screams.

"I thought it was a kid getting whipped by his mother so I didn't pay any attention," the witness said.

Other witnesses yesterday testified that immediately after Walter's body was found Croarkin had appeared and seemed greatly agitated. Among these witnesses was Thomas Furlong, brother of the girl to whom Croarkin had been paying court.

"He came to our house and seemed greatly agitated. We tried to get him out of the house and finally succeeded with difficulty. Later he returned but we would not allow him to enter," Furlong said.

Candy wrappers, which witnesses claimed were around candy that Croarkin had used to induce young Schmith to the Riding stables where the boy was found slain, were identified as having been purchased by Croarkin.

Through the entire day's testimony Croarkin paid a more or less sullen attention. He rested his head on his hands and his glance shifted first from the witness to the floor. At no time did he lose the perfect composure which has marked his attitude throughout the entire trial.

MAN SHOULD HAVE SEVEN SUITS, THREE O'COATS IN WARDROBE

New York, March 2.—(UP)—If a man doesn't want to run the risk of being mistaken for one who doesn't dress completely he should have at least seven suits and three overcoats in his wardrobe.

Such is the hint or warning of the fashion dictators attending the New York Custom Cutters' club style conference.

The suit should include a full dress with a tail coat, a tuxedo, a cutaway with striped trousers, a combination sport suit with both long and knicker trousers, and three business suits. The three overcoats should include an ulster, a medium weight and a light weight.

The full dress suit should be worn at all functions where the ladies appear in evening dress.

Brighter and lighter colors will be the stylish things in men's suits this year. Double breasted for older and single breasted for the younger are recommended.

The correct trouser leg will be 17½ to 19 inches wide at the bottom.

GREAT BRITAIN NOT OPPOSED TO GUN ELEVATION

London, March 2.—(UP)—Great Britain, the United Press was authoritatively informed today, has informally intimated to the United States that she was not opposed to the American proposal to elevate guns aboard the battleships Oklahoma and Nevada.

"GORILLA MAN" STRANGLER IN OTHER MURDERS

CLAIMED TO HAVE KILLED FIFTEEN PEOPLE IN PACIFIC NORTHWEST

BELIEVE HE WAS INVOLVED IN MYSTERIOUS MURDER OF CHICAGO WOMAN

Chicago, March 2.—(UP)—Possibility that the "gorilla man" strangler—who has killed 15 persons in the Pacific northwest and the middle-west, may be involved in the mysterious murder of Mrs. Mabel Wood was considered by police today.

The young woman, a bride of four months, was found dead in a bath tub at her hotel yesterday. Her body, fully disrobed, was lying submerged in 14 inches of water.

However, coroner's authorities determined she had been strangled to death and that drowning had not been the cause of her death as there was no water on the lungs. Heavy marks about her throat were indications she had been strangled.

Immediately after the woman's body was found police placed her husband, Carl, and two other men, Homer Cameron and Delbert Prevo, under technical arrest. They were released last night when police said there was little information against them.

An inquest into the death was continued from yesterday to March 10. Both Cameron and Prevo were able to give a perfect accounting of their whereabouts prior to the death of the woman, authorities announced.

The mystery of the woman's death centers on the fact the young woman's body was nude when found. None of her clothing was found in the bath room and her apartment was more than 30 feet from the bath room.

Testimony at the coroner's inquest developed that both Prevo and Cameron had been drinking in a room adjoining Mrs. Woods' the afternoon before her body was found. They, however, denied having been with the young bride.

The strangler murderer, who police believe may be involved in this case, has been sought for more than one and one-half years. His last activities were reported from Kansas City, Mo.

RUM BOAT WITH $1,500,000 CARGO

ESCORTED TO FRISCO BY 4 COAST GUARD CUTTERS CAPTURING HER

San Francisco, March 2.—(UP)—The rum-boat Federalship, laden with $1,500,000 worth of liquor, was bound for San Francisco today. She was being escorted by four coast guard cutters which effected her capture, 200 miles southwest of here.

S. S. Stone, master of the Federalship, according to messages to coast guard headquarters, refused to allow his craft to be boarded until gunfire was threatened yesterday. Stone and his crew were arrested.

Centerville, Ia., March 2.—(UP)—Authorities from Mankato, Minn., are expected here today to return L. W. Seals to the Minnesota city to answer charges of auto theft.

He is also said to be wanted in Texas.

RESULTS IN MURDER OF 4 MILL EMPLOYEES

BEYOND THIS VIOLENCE, SHANGHAI WAS QUIET FOR THE DAY

LOCAL PROTECTION SOCIETY ENDEAVORING TO RENEW GENERAL STRIKE

By MILES W. VAUGHN (United Press Staff Correspondent) Shanghai, March 2.—6:30 P. M.)—Chinese laborites in sympathy with the cause of the Cantonese nationalists today embarked upon a terrorist campaign which so far had resulted in the murder of four mill employees, one of them a woman.

Beyond the terrorism of the laborites, operating under the Style Labor Protection society, Shanghai was quiet.

The protection society was endeavoring today to renew the general strike which was called here more than a week ago but which lasted only a few days.

It was reliably reported today that all of Marshal Sun Chuan-Chang's military commanders would resign as a result of Sun's resignation from the governorship of this area. It was expected that Chang Chung-Chang would assume full control on the Sunkiang front, 30 miles south of Shanghai. It was reported, without confirmation, that the Cantonese nationalists were advancing today in the direction of Soochow, 50 miles west of Shanghai, in an effort to cut Chang's line and thereby to isolate his army at Sunkiang.

Sun was expected soon to announce his retirement to Japan.

Nine hundred Japanese sailors paraded through the international settlement today.

Shanghai, March 2.—The Spanish warship Blasalezo, with 150 marines aboard, was anchored off Shanghai today, ready to assist British, American, Italian, Japanese and French forces already there if the foreign settlement is endangered by Chinese revolutionary disturbances.

The force of Chang Chung-Chang at Sunkiang will number 80,000 when the Cantonese attempt to capture that gateway to Shanghai, the northern headquarters here said.

London, March 2.—Arms seized by U. S. naval forces at Hankow when they recaptured the motor vessel Meihung, which had been seized by Cantonese forces, will be kept until the southern leaders provide assurances that American vessels will not be seized, a dispatch to the Daily Mail said today.

The U. S. gunboat Pigeon trained its guns on the Meihung, which had been converted into a Cantonese troopship, and towed it to Hankow where the Chinese were disarmed and put ashore, the dispatch said.

Peking, China, March 2.—Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang today resigned as military leader of the Shanghai area.

Chang Chung-Chang, already in active charge of the armies defending Shanghai from the Cantonese forces, was expected to assume charge of the area on behalf of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin.

Sun's formal resignation, which had been expected for several days, was received by the Peking government.

Sun said a "red wave" has swept over the five provinces in his territory, making his efforts to control the district fruitless.

Senate Resumes consideration of prohibition reorganization bill.

House Considers miscellaneous bills and conference reports.

Veterans committee considers Jerry Tarbot case.

ADDITIONAL STAY GRANTED SIX IN SHADOW OF GALLOWS

Joliet, Ill., March 2.—(UP)—An additional stay of one week has been granted to six men who were sentenced to die on the gallows here Friday for the murder of Deputy Warden Peter Klein of the state prison.

The six are Gregorio Rizo, Robert Torres, Charles Shader, Charles Duschowski, Bernardo Ron and Walter Stalesky. It is the second continuance granted in the execution as they were originally to have hanged February 11. Attorneys for the six men asked the continuance in order to complete preparation of an appeal for a writ of supersedeas.

CHANCES OF WRIGHT GETTING DIVORCE "SLIM"

ARCHITECT'S ESTRANGED WIFE TELLS UNITED PRESS

RECUPERATING FROM RECENT SIEGE OF WRIGHT'S "LOVE NEST"

San Francisco, March 2.—(UP)—Chances of Frank Lloyd Wright getting a divorce "are exceedingly slim," the architect's estranged wife told the United Press today.

Mrs. Wright is in San Francisco recuperating from her recent siege of the famous Wright "love nest" in Wisconsin in which she claims to have found Wright living with Olga Milanoff, Montenegrin dancer.

Wright's trial on Mann act charges growing out of his alleged relations with Mme. Milanoff is scheduled to start in Minneapolis next week.

"I'll do everything I can for him except allow him to get a divorce," Mrs. Wright said. "He was cruel to me, starved me and made me wretched, but I don't want to see him suffer just because a designing woman has turned his head."

"This Milanoff is a servant girl who is in this country illegally. She is not educated, has no refinement, but is a clever adventuress. She seized upon my husband as a convenient peg upon which to hang a complication."

Mrs. Wright is "in possession of all the cards and will play them wisely," she said.

Among her "trumps," Mrs. Wright declared, are several hundred letters from her husband in a Chicago safety deposit box.

"They are being sent out to me and I will hold them to show how cruel he was to me," she said. "I have a few here and could give you excerpts from them, but they are inconsequential and trivial compared to the ones I can produce if necessary."

Eventually, Mrs. Wright concluded, she hopes to get an allowance for separate maintenance without a divorce.

HARRY FLEMMING, HIGH SCHOOL BOY, IS SENTENCED

Mankato, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—Harry Fleming, 19-year-old high school senior, today prepared for his 30-year imprisonment for the killing of Frank and Henry Jacobs.

The youth was sentenced to the reformatory at St. Cloud, late Tuesday, following his plea of guilty to first degree manslaughter in the shooting of Frank Jacobs, 29, and second degree manslaughter in the shooting of Frank's father Henry, 61, on December 27.

Fleming was sentenced to not more than 20 years on the first charge and not more than 10 years on the second charge. Both sentences called for hard labor, the 10 years to be begun on the completion or upon discharge from the 20 year sentence.

The Jacobs, alleged bootleggers, were shot by the high school boy, when they attempted to evict him and his three hunting companions from land they did not own.

Fleming told the court he shot the farmers in self defense when they advanced menacingly upon the hunting party.

STAGING BROKE DOWN AT MINE IN NOTTINGHAMSHIRE

ONLY 3 OF 17 TRAPPED IN THAT PIT HAVE BEEN FOUND

HOPE FOR RESCUE OF ANY IN WELSH ACCIDENT IS ABANDONED

London, March 2.—(UP)—Latest reports today from the scenes of yesterday's two mine disasters indicated 66 men had lost their lives.

Only three of 17 men trapped in a Nottinghamshire pit, 1½ miles from Rufford Abbey, had been found and the flooding of the works, which were just being sunk, made it unlikely that the remaining 14 could be alive. Collapse of staging caused the Nottinghamshire accident.

Cwm Ebbw Vale, Wales, March 2.—Hope for the rescue of 28 miners caught in a mine explosion here was abandoned today and truck loads of coffins were brought to the pit head as wives and sweethearts of the entombed men sloshed homeward through ankle deep mud. The dead number 52.

As the sun rose this morning the valley rang with the singing of the assembled men and women who sought divine assistance with the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

Relays of rescue workers vainly hacked against the sub-surface debris throughout the night. There was room for only 20 men to work at one time. Beyond the jumble of earth through which the workers sought a passage were the 28 men for whom watchers waited around the pit head.

Rain splattered dismally through the night and the restless movement of the waiting men and women churned the muddy earth until even a broad shoe would sink into it several inches.

There was silence all night except for the creaking of the cages as successive squads of workers descended into the pit and the distant roar of the Ebbw river in its course along the base of an adjacent mountain.

A hint of daylight in the east roused the watchers to song, but by mid-forenoon it had become apparent that the 28 were doomed.

Cwm Ebbw Vale, Wales, March 2.—Police action was necessary today to protect Premier and Mrs. Baldwin from an angry rush of miners when the conservative leader visited the scene of yesterday's mine explosion, which cost the lives of 52 men.

Baldwin was hissed and booed. As a gesture of sympathy, he had motored to the pit head from St. Fagan's Castle, near Cardiff, where he and Mrs. Baldwin were guests of the Earl of Plymouth.

The grief-stricken men and women resented the presence of the premier, and shouted "Traitor!" at him.

"Get back to your pigs" bellowed one miner.

"Down him!" another shouted.

A group of miners attempted to rush toward the Baldwin car, but was frustrated by the police.

Baldwin was obviously upset by the miners' attitude. The premier's departure caused another antagonistic outburst. He visited several stricken homes, where Mrs. Baldwin attempted to console the women folk of some of the dead. But as the car left the village, Baldwin was again hooted.

"The black vein," to which one jeering miner referred, means that portion of the mine in which the majority of the dead men were entombed.

NEW YORK FIRE ENDANGERS LIVES OF 47 BLIND WOMEN

New York, March 2.—(UP)—Fire in a radio shop on the first floor of a mid-town tenement early today aroused fear for the safety of 47 blind women in the Catholic Centre for the Blind, next door.

Firemen were able to control the blaze, however. Sister Patrick, in charge of the Catholic institution, awakened the women and assured them there would be no danger if they dressed quietly. There was no disorder.

Chicago, March 2.—(UP)—Possibility that the "gorilla man" strangler—who has killed 15 persons in the Pacific northwest and the middle-west, may be involved in the mysterious murder of Mrs. Mabel Wood was considered by police today.

The young woman, a bride of four months, was found dead in a bath tub at her hotel yesterday. Her body, fully disrobed, was lying submerged in 14 inches of water.

However, coroner's authorities determined she had been strangled to death and that drowning had not been the cause of her death as there was no water on the lungs. Heavy marks about her throat were indications she had been strangled.

Immediately after the woman's body was found police placed her husband, Carl, and two other men, Homer Cameron and Delbert Prevo, under technical arrest. They were released last night when police said there was little information against them.

An inquest into the death was continued yesterday to March 10. Both Cameron and Prevo were able to give a perfect accounting of their whereabouts prior to the death of the woman, authorities announced.

The mystery of the woman's death centers on the fact the young woman's body was nude when found. None of her clothing was found in the bath room and her apartment was more than 30 feet from the bath room.

Testimony at the coroner's inquest developed that both Prevo and Cameron had been drinking in a room adjoining Mrs. Woods' the afternoon before her body was found. They, however, denied having been with the young bride.

The stranger murderer, who police believe may be involved in this case, has been sought for more than one and one-half years. His last activities were reported from Kansas City, Mo.

RUM BOAT WITH $1,500,000 CARGO

ESCORTED TO FRISCO BY 4 COAST
GUARD CUTTERS CAP-
TURING HER

San Francisco, March 2.—(UP)—The rum-boat Federalship, laden with $1,500,000 worth of liquor, was bound for San Francisco today. She was being escorted by four coast guard cutters which effected her capture, 300 miles southwest of here. S. S. Stone, master of the Federalship, according to messages to coast guard headquarters, refused to allow his craft to be boarded until gunfire was threatened yesterday. Stone and his crew were arrested.

Centerville, Ia., March 2.—(UP)—Authorities from Mankato, Minn., are expected here today to return L. W. Seals to the Minnesota city to answer charges of auto theft.

He is also said to be wanted in Texas.

RESULTS IN MURDER OF 4 MILL EMPLOYEES

BEYOND THIS VIOLENCE, SHANG-HAI WAS QUIET FOR THE DAY

LOCAL PROTECTION SOCIETY EN-
DEAVORING TO RENEW GEN-ERAL STRIKE

By MILES W. VAUGHN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Shanghai, March 2.—6:30 P. M.)—Chinese laborites in sympathy with the cause of the Cantonese nationalists today embarked upon a terrorist campaign which so far had resulted in the murder of four mill employees, one of them a woman.

Beyond the terrorism of the laborites, operating under the Style Labor Protection society, Shanghai was quiet.

The protection society was endeavoring today to renew the general strike which was called here more than a week ago but which lasted only a few days.

It was reliably reported today that all of Marshal Sun Chuan-Chang's military commanders would resign as a result of Sun's resignation from the governorship of this area. It was expected that Chang Chung-Chang would assume full control on the Sunkiang front, 30 miles south of Shanghai. It was reported, without confirmation, that the Cantonese nationalists were advancing today in the direction of Soochow, 50 miles west of Shanghai, in an effort to cut Chang's line and thereby to isolate his army at Sunkiang.

Sun was expected soon to announce his retirement to Japan.

Nine hundred Japanese sailors paraded through the international settlement today.

Shanghai, March 2.—The Spanish warship Blazex, with 150 marines aboard, was anchored off Shanghai today, ready to assist British, American, Italian, Japanese and French forces already there if the foreign settlement is endangered by Chinese revolutionary disturbances.

The force of Chang Chung-Chang at Sunkiang will number 80,000 when the Cantonese attempt to capture that gateway to Shanghai, the northern headquarters here said.

London, March 2.—Arms seized by U. S. naval forces at Hankow when they recaptured the motor vessel Meihung, which had been seized by Cantonese forces, will be kept until the southern leaders provide assurances that American vessels will not be seized, a dispatch to the Daily Mail said today.

The U. S. gunboat Pigeon trained its guns on the Meihung, which had been converted into a Cantonese troopship, and towed it to Hankow where the Chinese were disarmed and put ashore, the dispatch said.

Peking, China, March 2.—Marshal Sun Chuang-Fang today resigned as military leader of the Shanghai area.

Chang Chung-Chang, already in active charge of the armies defending Shanghai from the Cantonese forces, was expected to assume charge of the area on behalf of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin.

Sun's formal resignation, which had been expected for several days, was received by the Peking government.

Sun said a "red wave" has swept over the five provinces in his territory, making his efforts to control the district fruitless.

ADDITIONAL STAY GRANTED SIX IN SHADOW OF GALLOWES

Joliet, Ill., March 2.—(UP)—An additional stay of one week has been granted to six men who were sentenced to die on the gallows here Friday for the murder of Deputy Warden Peter Klein of the state prison.

The six are Gregorio Rizo, Robert Torrez, Charles Shader, Charles Duschowski, Bernardo Rea and Walter Stalesky. It is the second continuance granted in the execution as they were originally to have hanged February 11.

Attorneys for the six men asked the continuance in order to complete preparation of an appeal for a writ of supersedeas.

CHANCES OF WRIGHT GETTING DIVORCE "SLIM"

ARCHITECT'S ESTRANGED WIFE
TELLS UNITED PRESS

RECUPERATING FROM RECENT SIEGE OF WRIGHT'S
"LOVE NEST"

San Francisco, March 2.—(UP)—Chances of Frank Lloyd Wright getting a divorce "are exceedingly slim," the architect's estranged wife told the United Press today.

Mrs. Wright is in San Francisco recuperating from her recent siege of the famous Wright "love nest" in Wisconsin in which she claims to have found Wright living with Olga Milanoff, Montenegrin dancer.

Wright's trial on Mann act charges growing out of his alleged relations with Mme. Milanoff is scheduled to start in Minneapolis next week.

"I'll do everything I can for him except allow him to get a divorce," Mrs. Wright said. "He was cruel to me, starved me and made me wretched, but I don't want to see him suffer just because a designing woman has turned his head."

"This Milanoff is a servant girl who is in this country illegally. She is not educated, has no refinement, but is a clever adventuress. She seized upon my husband as a convenient peg upon which to hang a complication."

Mrs. Wright is "in possession of all the cards and will play them wisely," she said.

Among her "trumps," Mrs. Wright declared, are several hundred letters from her husband in a Chicago safety deposit box.

"They are being sent out to me and I will hold them to show how cruel he was to me," she said. "I have a few here and could give you excerpts from them, but they are inconsequential and trivial compared to the ones I can produce if necessary."

Eventually, Mrs. Wright concluded, she hopes to get an allowance for separate maintenance without a divorce.

HARRY FLEMMING, HIGH SCHOOL BOY, IS SENTENCED

Mankato, Minn., March 2.—(UP)—Harry Fleming, 19-year-old high school senior, today prepared for his 30-year imprisonment for the killing of Frank and Henry Jacobs.

The youth was sentenced to the reformatory at St. Cloud, late Tuesday, following his plea of guilty to first degree manslaughter in the shooting of Frank Jacobs, 29, and second degree manslaughter in the shooting of Frank's father Henry, 61, on December 27.

Fleming was sentenced to not more than 20 years on the first charge and not more than 10 years on the second charge. Both sentences called for hard labor, the 10 years to be begun on the completion or upon discharge from the 20 year sentence.

The Jacobs, alleged bootleggers, were shot by the high school boy, when they attempted to evict him and his three hunting companions from land they did not own.

Fleming told the court he shot the farmers in self defense when they advanced menacingly upon the hunting party.

STAGING BROKE DOWN AT MINE IN NOTTINGHAMSHIRE

ONLY 3 OF 17 TRAPPED IN THAT PIT HAVE BEEN FOUND

HOPE FOR RESCUE OF ANY IN WELSH ACCIDENT IS ABANDONED

London, March 2.—(UP)—Latest reports today from the scenes of yesterday's two mine disasters indicated 66 men had lost their lives.

Only three of 17 men trapped in a Nottinghamshire pit, 1½ miles from Rufford Abbey, had been found and the flooding of the works, which were just being sunk, made it unlikely that the remaining 14 could be alive. Collapse of staging caused the Nottinghamshire accident.

Cwm Ebbw Vale, Wales, March 2.—Hope for the rescue of 28 miners caught in a mine explosion here was abandoned today and truck loads of coffins were brought to the pit head as wives and sweethearts of the entombed men sloshed homeward through ankle deep mud. The dead number 52.

As the sun rose this morning the valley rang with the singing of the assembled men and women who sought divine assistance with the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

Relays of rescue workers vainly hacked against the sub-surface debris throughout the night. There was room for only 20 men to work at one time. Beyond the jumble of earth through which the workers sought a passage were the 28 men for whom watchers waited around the pit head.

Rain splattered dismally through the night and the restless movement of the waiting men and women churned the muddy earth until even a broad shoe would sink into it several inches.

There was silence all night except for the creaking of the cages as successive squads of workers descended into the pit and the distant roar of the Ebbw river in its course along the base of an adjacent mountain.

A hint of daylight in the east roused the watchers to song, but by mid-forenoon it had become apparent that the 28 were doomed.

Cwm Ebbw Vale, Wales, March 2.—Police action was necessary today to protect Premier and Mrs. Baldwin from an angry rush of miners when the conservative leader visited the scene of yesterday's mine explosion, which cost the lives of 52 men.

Baldwin was hissed and booed. As a gesture of sympathy, he had motored to the pit head from St. Fagan's Castle, near Cardiff, where he and Mrs. Baldwin were guests of the Earl of Plymouth.

The grief-stricken men and women resented the presence of the premier, and shouted "Traitor!" at him.

"Get back to your pigs!" bellowed one miner.

"Down him!" another shouted. A group of miners attempted to rush toward the Baldwin car, but was frustrated by the police.

Baldwin was obviously upset by the miners' attitude. The premier's departure caused another antagonistic outburst. He visited several stricken homes, where Mrs. Baldwin attempted to console the women folk of some of the dead. But as the car left the village, Baldwin was again hooted.

"The black vein," to which one jeering miner referred, means the portion of the mine in which the majority of the dead men were entombed.

NEW YORK FIRE ENDANGERS LIVES OF 47 BLIND WOMEN

New York, March 2.—(UP)—Fire in a radio shop on the first floor of a mid-town tenement early today aroused fear for the safety of 47 blind women in the Catholic Centre for the Blind, next door.

Firemen were able to control the blaze, however. Sister Patrick, in charge of the Catholic institution, awakened the women and assured them there would be no danger if they dressed quietly. There was no disorder.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT WATERPROOFS

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, March 2.—(UP)—Foul weather gives no worry to well-dressed sportswomen since waterproof sports fabrics are placed on the market. Raincoats of rubberized silk proved such a boon to women who were forced to be out in all sorts of weather that manufacturers seized the opportunity of utilizing waterproofed silks for suits, hats and sports frocks.

Creme de chene and crepella are both made waterproof these days and lovely jumper frocks and two-piece suits are fashioned of these materials. These are a delight to the woman golfer since she need have no fear of her costume becoming spotted or shrinking after a rainstorm.

Not alone are waterproof silks used for sports wear but many very handsome afternoon coats for Spring days are being made up in these fabrics. For instance, an ensemble suit consisting of a bright Oriental blue silk frock and a black satin coat with reverses of blue in hagnony with the frock has its coat waterproofed so that no rain can harm it. Waterproof plaid alpaca coats recently imported from Paris are approved of for Spring. Rubberized crepe de chene with small or large patterned figures in contrasting colors are included among the sports coats.

Short jackets of rubberized silk are shown by one smart New York shop. These are to be worn over the one-piece sports dress, which, by the way, seems to be a bit smarter for the coming season than the jumper dress. The present vogue for short jackets for sports wear seems to be ousting two-piece dresses of the fashion map. Short jackets can be purchased separately and can be worn with various colored frocks. Two-piece jumper dresses, however, have had such general approval that they will undoubtedly continue to be popular for some time despite the vogue for one-piece frocks and separate jackets.

Marcasite monograms are designed to be worn on the breast pockets or lapels of sports suits. Amber and jade green are the favored colors for these monogram novelties. The tailored suit uses similar monograms on lapel or breast pocket.

FATE OF WESTCOTT IN JURY'S HANDS

Los Angeles, March 2.—(UP)—The fate of Carl Westcott, scion of a wealthy Minneapolis family, on trial for the murder of his father, Charles G. Westcott, will probably be in the hands of a jury today.

Only one prosecution argument remains to be presented and the jury will probably be instructed and locked up some time this afternoon, the prosecution announced.

Westcott, the state alleges, shot and killed his father the night of Oct. 20, 1926, as the culmination of a series of arguments over an estate left by the murdered man's father.

The state is asking the death penalty.

CASHIER'S BODY IS FOUND IN THE VAULT OF BANK

LA MOURE AUTHORITIES SEEK TO FIND SLAYERS OF BANKER

EVIDENCE POINTS TO STRUGGLE BETWEEN CASHIER AND ASSAILANTS

Verona, N. D., March 2.—(UP)—Without definite clues upon which to base a hunt, Coroner B. G. Ribble, La Moure, continued an investigation today in the murder of H. C. Bjone, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants State bank here whose body was found in the ransacked vault of the institution.

All the evidence gathered so far points to a clear case of a struggle between the cashier and his assailants, which ended when he was struck on the head and locked in the vault after the coffers had been emptied by the bandits.

Accountants checked over the books of the institution today trying to find the approximate sum taken by the robbers. While the bank was capitalized at $35,000 and had deposits of about $125,000 no one knew just what the losses were, for Bjone practically ran the institution.

Nearly every person in this little town crowded about the bank when the alarm was spread by the hotel keeper that Bjone was missing. Investigators found the front door of the building had been nailed shut while one glance at the vault belied the robbery. Failing to open the money chamber but that was found unnecessary when others succeeded in prying loose the combination which in turn permitted the door to be opened.

Police of Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota were on the look-out for the bandits today while special investigators were called to make a thorough investigation of the bank interior for clues which may lead to the arrest of the robbers and murderers.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT WATERPROOFS

By HEDDA HOYT
New York, March 2.—(UP)—Foul weather gives no worry to well-dressed sportswomen since waterproof sports fabrics are placed on the market. Raincoats of rubberized silk proved such a boon to women who were forced to be out in all sorts of weather that manufacturers seized the opportunity of utilizing waterproofed silks for suits, hats and sports frocks.

Crepe de chene and crepella are both made waterproof these days and lovely jumper frocks and two-piece suits are fashioned of these materials. These are a delight to the woman golfer since she need have no fear of her costume becoming spotted or shrinking after a rainstorm.

Not alone are waterproof silks used for sports wear but many very handsome afternoon coats for Spring days are being made up in these fabrics. For instance, an ensemble suit consisting of a bright Oriental blue silk frock and a black satin coat with revers of blue in hagnony with the frock has its coat waterproofed so that no rain can harm it. Waterproof plaid alpaca coats recently imported from Paris are approved of for Spring. Rubberized crepe de chene with small or large patterned figures in contrasting colors are included among the sports coats.

Short jackets of rubberized silk are shown by one smart New York shop. These are to be worn over the one-piece sports dress, which, by the way, seems to be a bit smarter for the coming season than the jumper dress. The present vogue for short jackets for sports wear seems to be ousting two-piece dresses of the fashion map. Short jackets can be purchased separately and can be worn with various colored frocks. Two-piece jumper dresses, however, have had such general approval that they will undoubtedly continue to be popular for some time despite the vogue for one-piece frocks and separate jackets. Marcasite monograms are designed to be worn on the breast pockets or lapels of sports suits. Amber and jade green are the favored colors for these monogram novelties. The tailored suit uses similar monograms on lapel or breast pocket.

FATE OF WESTCOTT IN JURY'S HANDS

Los Angeles, March 2.—(UP)—The fate of Carl Westcott, scion of a wealthy Minneapolis family, on trial for the murder of his father, Charles G. Westcott, will probably be in the hands of a jury today.

Only one prosecution argument remains to be presented and the jury will probably be instructed and locked up some time this afternoon, the prosecution announced.

Westcott, the state alleges, shot and killed his father the night of Oct. 20, 1926, as the culmination of a series of arguments over an estate left by the murdered man's father.

The state is asking the death penalty.

CASHIER'S BODY IS FOUND IN THE VAULT OF BANK

LA MOURE AUTHORITIES SEEK TO FIND SLAYERS OF BANKER

EVIDENCE POINTS TO STRUGGLE BETWEEN CASHIER AND ASSAILANTS

Verona, N. D., March 2.—(UP)—Without definite clues upon which to base a hunt, Coroner B. G. Ribble, La Moure, continued an investigation today in the murder of H. C. Bjone, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants State bank here whose body was found in the ransacked vault of the institution.

All the evidence gathered so far points to a clear case of a struggle between the cashier and his assailants, which ended when he was struck on the head and locked in the vault after the coffers had been emptied by the bandits.

Accountants checked over the books of the institution today trying to find the approximate sum taken by the robbers. While the bank was capitalized at $35,000 and had deposits of about $125,000 no one knew just what the losses were, for Bjone practically ran the institution.

Nearly every person in this little town crowded about the bank when the alarm was spread by the hotel keeper that Bjone was missing. Investigators found the front door of the building had been nailed shut while one glance at the vault belied the robbery. Failing to open the money chamber but that was found unnecessary when others succeeded in prying loose the combination which in turn permitted the door to be opened.

Police of Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota were on the look-out for the bandits today while special investigators were called to make a thorough investigation of the bank interior for clues which may lead to the arrest of the robbers and murderers.

SELECTIONS FOR THE FEDERAL RADIO COMMISSION
CRITICIZED

OPPOSITION FROM SOME QUAR- TER FLARES AGAINST ALL FIVE NAMED

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, March 2.—Still another fight for the closing three days of congress appeared suddenly today as a result of President Coolidge's selections for the federal radio commission.

Opposition from some quarter flared against all of the five named and the nominations were referred to the interstate commerce committee for investigation, with but three days for investigation and action by the senate.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, who joined Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, in opposing the form of radio legislation desired by President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, is chairman of this committee. Watson had a candidate for the place from zone four, which includes his state, but the candidate was passed over.

Dill, author of the original senate bill, said today that only two of the five are acceptable to him. These two are Judge Eugene O. Sykes, of Mississippi, formerly chief justice of the state supreme court, and Rear Admiral William H. G. Bullard, retired, formerly director of naval communications. The former is from zone three, the latter from zone two. "The other three are hand-picked Hoover men," Dill said.

The three so described by Dill are Orestes H. Caldwell, of New York, editor of Radio Retailing, from zone one; Henry A. Bellows, director of broadcasting station WCCO at Minneapolis, from zone four, and John F. Dillon, radio supervisor of the commerce department at San Francisco, from zone five.

"Caldwell is the avowed candidate of the Radio Corporation of America, while Dillon is now in the employ of Hoover," Dill said.

Those who oppose the nominations are in a bad strategic position, as failure to confirm will leave the way open for President Coolidge to make recess appointments, and the major part of the work of this commission, which will have control over regulation for only a year, will have been completed by the time congress returns in December. After a year, the commerce department assumes jurisdiction, with the commission a judicial body acting on appeals from the department's rulings.

The president's selections were praised highly by Elisha Hanson, attorney for the Newspaper Broadcasting Association.

"The president," he said, "has selected four technically equipped radio men and one distinguished jurist. As the legal representative of more than 100 newspapers operating broadcasting stations, I desire to express my satisfaction with his choice."

Sizes of Continents

Europe forms only about one-fourth of the land surface of the globe. Asia extends over nearly one-third of the land surface of the globe. Africa has about three times the area of Europe. North America is a little less than twice the size of Europe; and South America is a little more than 1 1/2 times the size of Europe.

Sea Superstitions

We are indebted to the seamen of antiquity for the belief that kingfishers cast a spell upon the deep, so that calm weather prevails during the "balcony days," about the time of the winter solstice. Once again the world had a coming out party that was greater than the presentation of a queen. It was the presentation to the world of the thirteen queens of the motion picture world for 1927.

The girls are the Wampus Baby Stars for 1927. Each year the members of the Wampus, an organization of the motion picture exploitation and publicity men select thirteen of the young women of the film colony.

who, they believe, have the greatest opportunity to become stars within the year. The selection is almost priceless to the girls. It is as nearly as anything can be, a guarantee of screen fame.

Out of the thirteen girls of a year ago, five have since been starred. They are Dolores Del Rio, Vera Reynolds, Joan Crawford, Mary Astor and Sally O'Neill. Each of the others has done well.

This year the thirteen baby stars were presented at a huge ball at Los Angeles, February 17. It was the one opportunity of the year for the public to meet and mingle with the screen famous of Hollywood, for everyone is there to see and applaud the girls that are launched on their pathway to film glory and world fame.

"SOME WILD NOTIONS I HAVE KNOWN"

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"SAY IT WITH FLOWERS"

Why not say it in person?
It is often easier to send a dozen expensive roses than one honest apology. You can buy flowers, but honest words are born of soul-travail.
The fairest flowers, too, can be sent by the blackest and foulest villain. Judas betrayed the Saviour with a kiss. Brutus appeared in the role of a friend.

We can send flowers when we cannot face the facts. They can become a convenient screen behind which to hide.

Many a wife has sobbed out an evening of wretched loneliness with a gorgeous bouquet of cut flowers striving vainly to do duty in the place of a husband who was at the lodge, club or poker party.

Van loads of roses can never compensate for the loss of tender words affectionately spoken.

It is far easier to send a few flowers of charity into the haunts of wretchedness and greed than to give a few hours of personal assistance in cleaning up the conditions which make charity necessary.

The finest flowers that ever grew, with their unmatched loveliness and winsome beauty, can never be a satisfactory substitute for the words of honest appreciation that men are expected to give.

The message of flowers, at best, is only a substitute for the message of hearts that should be expressed. The most glorious blossom that ever opened its eyes to God's sunlight means less than the stammering words of penitence or the humble phrases of love, spoken in sincerity and truth by human lips.

"SAY IT WITH FLOWERS"

Why not say it in person?
It is often easier to send a dozen expensive roses than one honest apology. You can buy flowers, but honest words are born of soul-travail.

The fairest flowers, too, can be sent by the blackest and foulest villain. Judas betrayed the Saviour with a kiss. Brutus appeared in the role of a friend.

We can send flowers when we cannot face the facts. They can become a convenient screen behind which to hide.

Many a wife has sobbed out an evening of wretched loneliness with a gorgeous bouquet of cut flowers striving vainly to do duty in the place of a husband who was at the lodge, club or poker party.

Van loads of roses can never compensate for the loss of tender words affectionately spoken.

It is far easier to send a few flowers of charity into the haunts of wretchedness and greed than to give a few hours of personal assistance in cleaning up the conditions which make charity necessary.

The finest flowers that ever grew, with their unmatched loveliness and winsome beauty, can never be a satisfactory substitute for the words of honest appreciation that men are expected to give.

The message of flowers, at best, is only a substitute for the message of hearts that should be expressed. The most glorious blossom that ever opened its eyes to God's sunlight means less than the stammering words of penitence or the humble phrases of love, spoken in sincerity and truth by human lips.

NORTH CAROLINA SNOWBOUND NEAR WINSTON SALEM

Winston Salem, N. C., March 2.—(UP)—This section of North Carolina was snowbound today. The estimated snowfall over night was between 15 and 16 inches, the snow continued falling all morning.

Street car and automobile traffic was halted. Many workers were unable to leave their homes. Communication facilities within the city were crippled.

Paths were being cleared as rapidly as possible for pedestrians and efforts were being made to restore street car service. One car left its tracks and ran into the front yard of a residence while trying to break a path.

Fruit crops in and around the city are believed to have been killed.

NEW POLICY OF NORTHERN PACIFIC

A NEW policy which has for its purpose more intensive follow-up work among new settlers on farms in the northwest, was announced today by the Northern Pacific railway company, when it made known that its agricultural and immigration departments are to be consolidated and a single department of agriculture development created.

John W. Haw, who has had experience as County Agent Leader in North Dakota and in agricultural development work for the Northern Pacific, has been named director of the new division. More effective cooperation with agricultural colleges and other agencies now engaged in agricultural development of the northwest is the objective, said J. G. Woodworth, vice president in charge of traffic.

The departments united under the new plan are: The immigration division which, for years, has been placing northwest opportunities before prospective settlers through the preparation and widespread distribution of descriptive literature and in the personal solicitation of promising prospects so developed. The agricultural development division, which has directed its activities toward greater production, and better marketing of agricultural products.

Mr. Woodworth in making the announcement of the revised policy of the Northern Pacific, in cooperation with other active builders of the territory, expressed great faith in the future of the northwest.

"Heretofore we have put forth our greatest effort in connection with the immigration work," Mr. Woodworth said. "The great resources of our territory and the unusual opportunities for individual accomplishment have been made known. We have directed the movement of a large number of new settlers who have been distributed in our territory between the Mississippi river and the Pacific ocean. Experience has taught us that while it is important that we advertise our country and bring in new people, it is also important that we do everything possible to help the newcomers and insure their success. All of these people have friends in their home states. If they are pleased with our country and if they are successful in their new undertaking, they will influence their friends to join them, in other words, a satisfied and successful settler is the best immigration agent."

"The agricultural colleges through the county agents are doing good work. These men help the farmers to judge soil conditions and select the most suitable and profitable crops. They are especially helpful to newcomers accustomed to a different climate who would otherwise be obliged to learn by experience the different methods of soil preparation and planting and the different requirements in connection with the care of livestock. These men have been especially helpful in connection with the evolution from straight grain farming and exclusive cattle and sheep ranches to the improved plans of diversified farming which have been developed in each district."

"It is the purpose of the Northern Pacific to have a well qualified agricultural development agent in each state; in the larger states two or more men of this kind will be employed; most of them are graduates of agricultural colleges and many of them are experienced in farm management. They will not be advocates of particular methods or policies but rather will it be their purpose to help the individual farmer in his own effort to find the best way to do things."

"These railroad representatives have also been very helpful in establishing better relations between the farmers and the town people. The bankers, merchants and townspeople generally have not always appreciated their dependence on the farmer or their interest in the development of agriculture and improvement of farm conditions."

Considering its purpose and its possibilities, this newly organized department of the Northern Pacific might well be called the Department of the Interior. General commendation of the work we have already done has encouraged us to enlarge the organization and we believe these men working in our own territory will have an indirect influence on immigration more important than any direct influence they could exert if employed in the outside field."

THE NEWSBOY BILL

CITING instances where eminent personages of history and many others had risen from beginnings as newsboys, opponents of a bill to make more stringent the laws regulating occupations of minors, were successful in defeating the measure when it came up for consideration before the House committee in our state.

The measure was specifically aimed at newsboys operating newsstands and hiring other boys to sell the papers.

The Brainerd Dispatch notes with pleasure the rise of many of its newsboys. Constantly the paper employs some of the brightest boys in the schools, who in later years make their mark in the world of business and the professions.

THE highway commission will build a bridge across the Mississippi at Anoka, which will be a real bridge. The old bridge illustrates a principle of bad financing. Part of the cost was from a legislative appropriation and Hennepin and Anoka counties, the city of Anoka issuing $30,000 in bonds as its share. There was no reduction in the bonds, which were twice refunded, and before the city got around to reduce the principal, it has paid $48,000 in interest. While issuing bonds sometimes is good business and very necessary, the wise plan is to create a sinking fund to pay them off in installments and stop the interest as soon as possible. Probably Anoka has a lot of municipal company on poor financing—or lack of adequate business methods.—St. Cloud Journal-Press.

REMEMBER: the days of long ago when Dad bought you a pair of boots and how proud you were of the squeak? Well, the ruling Indian princes and chiefs have taken to boots and the squeaker they are the more they impress their barefooted subjects.

RALPH BUDD, president of the Great Northern railway company, addressed the Engineers' society of St. Paul Monday on the proposed merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways.

PERSONAL property taxes are due this month and March 1 a penalty of ten per cent is added if unpaid. April 1 the collection is turned over to the sheriff and costs of collection are also added.

PRICES BREAK IN LAST MINUTES OF EXCHANGE TRADING

New York, March 2.—(UP)—After steadily declining throughout the season, prices broke sharply in the last 15 minutes of trading on the New York Stock exchange today, harking back to the break of exactly a year ago, which demoralized the entire stock market.

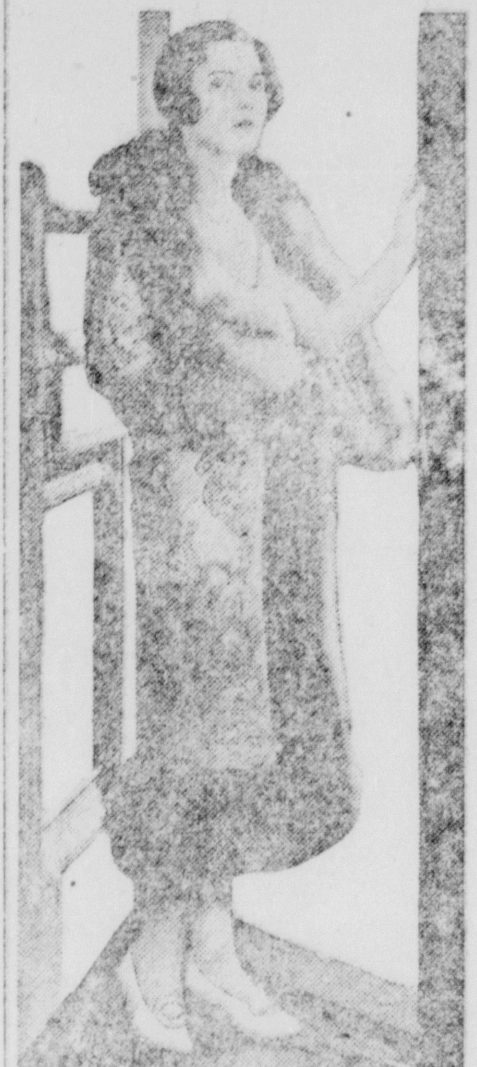

Baldwin Locomotive dropped five points and in the last hour shot down four more, while General Motors was off nearly six points, Allied Chemical two and Houston Oil four.

Prices went down and down, many important stocks being affected.

Market experts were inclined to attribute the break to a general readjustment within the market itself rather than to any widespread economic cause outside the market. The similar drop of a year ago today was attributed to the same source and subsequent developments indicated that the deduction was correct.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, working his way through college, is informed by his chums, Freddy and Arch, that they have found an easy and profitable way to earn money—working as dancing partners of afternoons, for rich women in a fashionable New Jersey roadhouse. Bob thinks it isn't a fit way to make a living; but, faced with eviction for unpaid rent, reluctantly agrees to go to the roadhouse. There he first dances with Mazie, a gold-digger. And there he sees the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on. She is Sally, the cigarette girl.

CHAPTER V—Continued

Never in Sally Smith's tender years had she felt so queerly thrilled as she did now under the spell of Bob Ward's cleanly eyes. Little shivers here and there, gentle tremors within the warm sheath of her flower-like young body.

Heretofore, everything in the Palisado Inn, every happening, had quite passed over the innocent young head of Sally Smith, the cigarette girl. She had idly wondered at things. In a preciously unsophisticated way, of course. Now, in the course of half an hour, she felt herself—always under these steady, pleasant, kindly eyes—bloom into understanding. A sweet understanding, quite too holy for the unbecoming place of its birth.

Sally Smith suddenly felt, very grown-up.

Heretofore she had bantered with the rouses, the wolves, who bought her cigarettes, in the purely impersonal and indifferent way that is natural only to sublimely innocent and unbudding girls or to incredibly virtuous mature women; and that is successfully simulated only by the most self-confident and self-sufficient of all the other and

Smith, had a Prince to compare with this handsome giant of a boy with—those eyes, that wavy hair! Oh, the dance was over! He was escorting Mazie to a table. Sally Smith's heart pounded with a great womanly satisfaction to note that there was no grace, no artificial polish, in his manner of attendance upon his dancing partner. He was just a big, awkward boy.

Little Sally Smith thrilled to the feminine possessive joy in discovering that he was "not like other boys."

And little Sally Smith grew bold—very bold. She pointedly held up a package of cigarettes toward him, while her cheeks deepened to the red of saliva petals and her eyes were shining stars.

Yet! He was diffidently, yet eagerly, nodding "yes"—he stood there beside the table of Mazie, from whom, in the awkwardness of his entertaining technique, he had not yet parted himself.

Sally Smith went forward with outwardly bright determination, while in truth her dimpled little knees were knocking together under the bell-like flare of her costume dress.

She was handing the package to him now—and looking into his eyes. And he was taking the package from her now—and looking into her eyes. By that uncanny seventh sight of first sight love, hand met packet. There was no telltale groping. But Mazie Revere saw, and sneered, nevertheless. Little enough that Mazie ever missed.

Sally wondered; were these cigarettes the kind Mr. Ward wanted? Bob, without noticing what kind they were, avowed that they were exactly what he wanted. The kind he always smoked. If she had proffered him a packet of tennipenny horseshoe, nails, he would have sworn, in that moment, that they were exactly what he smoked!

Suddenly Bob remembered that if one purchased cigarettes, one was expected to pay for them. The red of his boyish shyness deepened into the flaming fire of awful embarrassment.

For Bob recollected, in some remote and unreal way, that he had but two bits in his pocket. The price of his carfare home, little more! No margin to squander on the luxury of fags.

"Maybe I'd better not smoke while I'm working. Maybe the proprietress—err—Madame Leonine, might not like it!" He was lame and unconvincing.

Sally, with the rare insight that has been a hundred centuries of sex in the perfecting, softly cut him short:

"Oh, the Madame won't mind!" Deftly she forestalled further objection by breaking the packet open, and extracting a cigarette with her delicately pointed fingers. Her slender fingers with their oval nails. "Here, take them. You can pay me tomorrow!"

Bob was defeated as much by his own sense of inadequacy, of failure to rise gallantly to a romantic occasion, as by the prim persuasiveness of her manner. As in a daze, he accepted the cigarettes. Her eyes were so caressing.

Sally Smith was thrilling to a similar realization about his eyes. Mazie had to spoil things. Mazie, the worldly wise and worn, the social Countess with the bar-leque chorine's sense of fitness, etiquette, and philosophy. Mazie—rolling her eyes in what she thought was oh so wise and tricky a manner—said:

"Say, Sally, that's a great line of yours. Giving all those old boozers, fake numbers. But, on the level, kid—you're missing some great contacts. I always say—never miss a contact. You've got a gold mine, kid, in yours—if you'd only quit being a sap and a goose, and develop them!"

Sally Smith was quite bewildered. She did not clearly understand.

Bob austere championed her: "I hope Miss Smith doesn't follow any such advice!"

The look Mazie Revere bent upon both of these youngsters was full of oldish contempt. It was on the tip of her broad, curled tongue to emphatically inform this young gallant that he was in a roadhouse, not a monastery. Only Madame Leonine came hustling over and aborted the welling speech.

The beaming Madame whisked Bob away to be presented, for the next dance, to a giddy and greedy looking shark of a dowager, who was waiting in her hungry age to lean and feast and feed upon the strong, unfolding arms of his young manhood. In the closeness of the dance she would breathe, from his muscular young body, the magnetic things that life had denied to her. The things that a barren domesticity sent her forth to seek in the hot, sham playgrounds of passion.

The dance was on. Mazie was sitting it out—for want of a partner from whom she could get a thrill.

She pointedly held a package of cigarettes toward him.

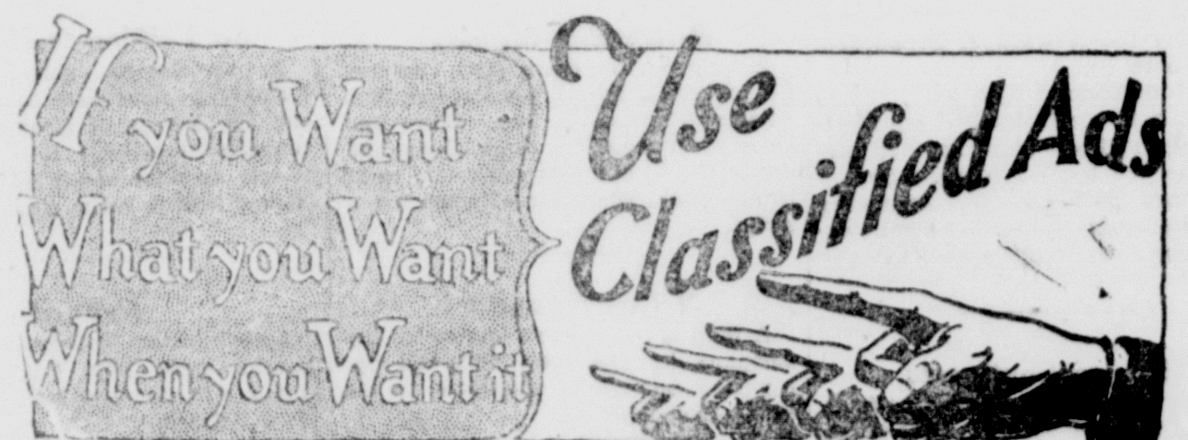

Laxer species of womankind. Jostling with a man about her telephone number had meant no more to Sally Smith than swapping apple cores would mean to a boy of Tom Sawyer age.

But this afternoon—this last thirty minutes—something new and strange, and quite delightfully terrifying, had been tinging in Sally's warm young blood. Those level eyes of Bob Ward had some penetrating force, some mysterious potency, that carried them right through clothing and flesh into the hot channels where coursed one's blood.

Sally had been quite tongue-tied at Bob's presentation to her by Madame Leonine in the dressing rooms. She had been so embarrassed that she was glad, in a reluctant way, when the Madame gave them no time to talk.

Ever since, watching Bob dance, and being watched by him in return, Sally had been making queer little noises of delight deep in her soft throat. She had been involuntarily hunching her shoulders, too, and hunching herself—in delight. Her slim arms, ached strangely to press something under her girl-child breasts. She couldn't divine the impulse, but she gave it vicarious expression by tightening the beribboned cigarette tray to her. Delight. Furring delight. Delight with everything—with herself, Bob, Madame Leonine, these men who made such a silly fuss and said such silly things, certainly with Freddy and Arch for their having brought this Prince Charming; even with Mazie, who said such cruel things sometimes—things Sally never fully understood.

Sally preened and glowed, with and without; and tripped around on polished boards that had magically turned into roseate clouds, and felt realistically like the little princesses, the Cindereellas, in the fairy tale books of a childhood from which she had not wholly emerged. Indeed, what one of the familiar, dearly-beloved stories, of the books so lately closed by Sal-

"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. pictureization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, working his way through college, is informed by his chums, Freddy and Arch, that they have found an easy and profitable way to earn money—working as dancing partners, of afternoons, for rich women in a fashionable New Jersey roadhouse. Bob thinks it isn't a fit way to make a living; but, faced with eviction for unpaid rent, reluctantly agrees to go to the roadhouse. There he first dances with Mazie, a gold-digger. And there he sees the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on. She is Sally, the cigarette girl.

Never in Sally Smith's tender years had she felt so queerly thrilled as she did now under the spell of Bob Ward's cleanly eyes. Little shivers ran down her spine. Gentle tremors within the warm sheath of her flower-like young body.

Heretofore, everything in the Palladium Inn, every happening, had quite passed over the innocent young head of Sally Smith, the cigarette girl. She had idly wondered at things. In a previously unsophisticated way, of course. Now, in the course of half an hour, she felt herself—always under those steady, pleasant, kindly eyes—bloom into understanding. A sweet understanding, quite too holy for the unbecoming place of its birth.

Sally Smith suddenly felt, very grown-up.

Heretofore she had bantered with the ruses, the wiles, who bought her cigarettes, in the purely impersonal and indifferent way that is natural only to sublimely innocent and unbidden girls or to incredibly virtuous mature women; and that is successfully simulated only by the most self-confident and self-sufficient of all the other and

Smith, had a Prince to compare with this handsome giant of a boy with—those eyes, that wavy hair! Oh, the dance was over! He was escorting Mazie to a table. Sally Smith's heart pounded with a great womanly satisfaction to note that there was no grace, no artificial polish, to his manner of attendance upon his dancing partner. He was just a big, awkward boy.

Little Sally Smith thrilled to the feminine possessive joy in discovering that he was "not like other boys."

And little Sally Smith grew bold—very bold. She pointedly held up a package of cigarettes toward him, while her cheeks deepened to the red of sativa petals and her eyes were shining stars.

Yes! He was diffidently, yet eagerly, nodding "yes"—as he stood there beside the table of Mazie, from whom, in the awkwardness of his entertaining technique, he had not yet parted himself.

Sally Smith went forward with outwardly bright determination, while in truth her dimpled little knees were knocking together under the bell-like flare of her costume dress.

She was handing the package to him now—and looking into his eyes. And he was taking the package from her now—and looking into her eyes. By that uncanny seventh sight of first sight love, hand met packet. There was no telltale groping. But Mazie Revero saw, and sneered, nevertheless. Little enough that Mazie ever missed.

Sally wondered: were these cigarettes the kind Mr. Ward wanted?

Bob, without noticing what kind they were, avowed that they were exactly what he wanted. The kind he always smoked. If she had proffered him a packet of tennipenny horseshoe nails he would have sworn, in that moment, that they were exactly what he smoked!

Suddenly Bob remembered that if one purchased cigarettes, one was expected to pay for them. The red of his boyish earnestness deepened into the flaming fire of awful embarrassment.

For Bob recollected, in some remote and unreal way, that he had but two bits in his pocket. The price of his carfare home, little more! No margin to squander on the luxury of fags.

"Maybe I'd better not smoke while—I'm working. Maybe the proprietress—err—Madame Leonine, might not like it!" He was lame and unconvincing.

Sally, with the rare insight that has been a hundred centuries of sex in the perfecting, softly cut him short:

"Oh, the Madame won't mind!" Deftly she forestalled further objection by breaking the packet open, and extracting a cigarette with her delicately pointed finger. Her slender fingers with their oval nails. "Here, take them. You can pay me tomorrow!"

Bob was defeated as much by his own sense of inadequacy, of failure to rise gallantly to a romantic occasion, as by the prim persuasiveness of her manner. As in a daze, he accepted the cigarettes. Her eyes were so caressing.

Sally Smith was thrilling to a similar realization about his eyes. Mazie had to spoil things. Mazie, the worldly wise and worn, Mazie, the social Countess with the barlesque chorine's sense of fitness, etiquette, and philosophy. Mazie—rolling her eyes in what she thought was oh! so wise and tricky a manner—said:

"Say, Sally, that's a great line of yours. Giving all those old boozes fake numbers. But, on the level, kid—you're missing some great contacts. I always say—never miss a contact. You've got a gold mine, kid, in yours—if you'd only quit being a sap and a goose, and develop them!"

Sally Smith was quite bewildered. She did not clearly understand.

Bob austere championed her: "I hope Miss Smith doesn't follow any such advice!"

The look Mazie Revero bent upon both of these youngsters was full of oldish contempt. It was on the tip of her broad, upturned tongue to emphatically inform this young gallant that he was in a roadhouse, not a monastery. Only Madame Leonine came bustling over and aborted the welling speech.

The beaming Madame whisked Bob away to be presented, for the next dance, to a giddy and greedy looking shark of a dowager, who was waiting in her hungry age to learn and feast and feed upon the strong, unfolding arms of his young manhood. In the closeness of the dance she would breathe, from his muscular young body, the magnetic things that life had denied to her. The things that a barren domesticity sent her forth to seek in the hot, sham playgrounds of passion. The dance was on. Mazie was sitting it out—for want of a partner from whom she could get a thrill.

She pointedly held a package of cigarettes toward him.

laxer species of womankind. Joshing with a man about her telephone number had meant no more to Sally Smith than swapping apple cores would mean to a boy of Tom Sawyer age.

But this afternoon—this last thirty minutes—something new and strange, and quite delightfully terrifying, had been tingling in Sally's warm young blood. Those level eyes of Bob Ward had some penetrating force, some mysterious potency, that carried them right through clothing and flesh into the hot channels where coursed one's blood.

Sally had been quite tongue-tied at Bob's presentation to her by Madame Leonine in the dressing rooms. She had been so embarrassed that she was glad, in a reluctant way, when the Madame gave them no time to talk.

Ever since, watching Bob dance, and being watched by him in return, Sally had been making queer little noises of delight deep in her soft throat. She had been involuntarily hunching her shoulders, too, and hugging herself—in delight.

Her slim round arms ached strangely to press something under her girl-child breasts. She couldn't divine the impulse, but she gave it vicarious expression by tightening the beribboned cigarette tray to her. Delight. Furring delight. Delight with everything—with herself, Bob, Madame Leonine, these men who made such a silly fuss and said such silly things, certainly with Freddy and Arch for their having brought this Prince Charming; even with Mazie, who said such cruel things—sometimes—things Sally never fully understood.

Sally preened and glowed, with-to and without; and tripped around on polished boards that had magically turned into roseate clouds, and felt realistically like the little princesses, the Cinderellas, in the fairy tale books of a childhood from which she had not wholly emerged. Indeed, what one of the familiar, dearly-beloved stories, of the books so lately closed by Sally

FLYING ACES CITY BASKETBALL CHAMPS

CITY TITLE GOES TO FLYING ACES BY 14 TO 13 WIN

EVERY SLIPS WINNING BASKET IN HOOP WITH MINUTE TO PLAY

FOUR HUNDRED FANS SURGE ON TO FLOOR AS THE FINAL WHISTLE BLOWS

Flying Aces—Brainerd City Champions.

By right of conquest over their most persistent rivals, the Flying Aces awoke this morning with a new title added to their names, that of independent champions of the city of Brainerd for the year 1927. Small margin of one point was the deciding factor, but it was enough to send 400 rabid fans out of the high school gym last night singing the praises of the Flying Aces, especially of Avery, whose last minute shot dropped the winning counter into the hoop when victory seemed assured for the Rainbows.

The score was 14 to 13. It might have been a hundred points to the good, and it would have made no difference to the Flying Aces backers, who found considerable satisfaction in the fact that their favorite had downed the world-touring Rainbows.

Those last few minutes will be lived over and over in the minds of the many who saw the game, when the Rainbows were hanging on by their slim margin of one point, trying to outlast the final seconds and bring home the victory that they thought rightfully belonged to them. It was the first time during the entire game that the Rainbows had been ahead, and for about two and one-half of the final three and one-half minutes they clung to the one point lead.

The Aces went mad, and tried time and again to net a winning basket. Their shots rolled into the hoop and out again, and it seemed that their efforts were hoodooed. Finally Avery took a direct pass from one of the Rainbows, warded off a guarding Rainbow with his right hand, and tossed the ball—basket ward with his left, and it sunk. With 20 seconds to play, the Rainbows called time out, then went into the final seconds with desperation written over their countenances. Seven seconds passed, and Referee Lowe awarded a free throw to Fitzsimmons for slugging. If he made good, the game would go into extra periods. But he missed, and the remaining twelve seconds passed quickly.

The Flying Aces lead almost all the way. At the first quarter, it was 4 to 0 in their favor, Bill Heikkinen and Whitlock making baskets. The Rainbows started going at the second period, however, and baskets by Ziebell, Fitzsimmons and Welsh, plus a free throw by Welsh, while Avery was making a field goal, and Otto Heikkinen a free throw, gave them a tie at 7 to 7 as the half ended.

The third quarter was all the Flying Aces, with five points on baskets by Avery and Whitlock and a free throw by Bill Heikkinen put the count at 12 to 7 as the third quarter ended. Then the Rainbows again started going, Engbretson getting his only field goal of the game, Lawrenz getting one, and Welsh getting his second, and thus the game stood at 13 to 12, until the final seconds, when, as stated above, Avery shattered the hopes of the Rainbows by a one-hand toss.

Avery was the chief worker for good among the Flying Aces, netting three field goals for the evening. Whitlock made two, and Bill Heikkinen one, and each of the Heikkinens made a free throw. For the Rainbows, Welsh was high man, with two clean baskets from mid-court, plus a free throw, and Ziebell, Fitzsimmons, Lawrenz and Engbretson each made a basket.

The Flying Queens won over the Crosby girls in the preliminary game by a score of 21 to 4, with Beggs the great star.

Beggs contributed seven field goals as her share of the work. She was the mainstay of the game throughout, and the Crosby girls had no way to cope with her. Fogelstrom, Tur-

JIMMY DELANEY WAGING HARD BATTLE FOR LIFE

Minneapolis, March 2.—(UP)—Jimmy Delaney, widely known St. Paul heavyweight boxer, today was still waging the hardest battle of his career—a fight for life against blood poisoning. Hospital authorities this morning said Delaney rested well last night but his condition was still serious.

FIGHT RESULTS

(By United Press)
New Haven, Conn.—Young Conley, lightweight champion of Connecticut, fought a 10-round draw with Jack Pilkington of Mariden, George Balduc of Lewiston, Me., won from George Day, New Haven.

Albany, N. Y.—Although outweighed six pounds, Jack Bernstein of Yonkers won a decision over Les Murray of New Zealand. Bobby Bolin, New York, defeated Juan Mayo, Philippines.

Portland, Me.—Joe Monte, Brockton, won a newspaper decision over Tex McEwan, Canadian light heavyweight, in six rounds. Pete Chico, Boston, defeated Young Fordekin, Biddeford.

Lynn, Mass.—Johnny Moore of Boston received the decision over Louis Prince, Manchester, in eight rounds.

Denver—Marl Judge, Minneapolis middleweight, took the decision from "One-Step" Watson, Denver negro in a headline bout.

Los Angeles—"Baby" Joe Gans, negro lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Dode Beroot, Seattle, in the eighth of a ten-round battle.

Fresno, Calif.—Young Corbett, Fresno southpaw, was given the decision over Larry Murphy, Hollywood, after ten fast rounds.

San Francisco—Armand Amanuel, former national amateur champion, easily defeated Al Corbett, San Francisco, in six rounds. It was Amanuel's 17th straight professional victory.

Portland, Ore.—Del Fontaine, Canadian middleweight, and Tiger Thomas, Leipsville, Pa., boxed a speedy ten-round draw.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Izzy Schwartz of New York outpointed Kid Anselm, negro flyweight, in an eight-round bout. "Corporal Izzy" had the edge throughout and did all the leading.

Fall River, Mass.—Ed Koeley, Boston, scored a technical knockout over Jack Ward, Montreal, in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-rounder. Eleazar Rioux, Montreal, won a decision over Rocky Stone in 16 rounds.

Fond Du Lac, Wis.—Tony Ross, Pittsburgh, and Billy Light, St. Paul, fought to a ten-round draw here last night. While Light had the better of the bout at the start, Ross rallied and managed to get an even break. Jack Heineman, Milwaukee, outpointed Norm Genet, Cleveland, in the ten-round semi-windup.

Fort Worth, Texas—Mike Arnold, Fort Worth heavyweight, won a close decision from Jack Matlock, Dallas, in 10 rounds.

San Antonio, Texas—Jimmy McDermott, Terre Haute, Ind., bantam, defeated Mike Sansone, Mexico City, 16 rounds, decision.

Chicago—Mike Dundee, Rock Island, Ill., won a decision over Bobby Garcia, Mexican, in ten rounds here. Pat Moore beat Kid Jap in ten rounds.

IMPENDING STRUGGLE BETWEEN TWO OF BASEBALL'S COLORFUL FIGURES

New York, March 2.—Babe Ruth today agreed to sign a contract with the New York Yankees calling for a salary of $70,000 a year for three years.

Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, announced that the agreement had been reached after he and Ruth had a short talk together in Ruppert's office this afternoon. The figure is $20,000 less per year than the $100,000 Ruth wanted. It amounts to $210,000 for the three year period.

Ruth's contract puts him along with Ty Cobb as the high salaried man of baseball. Cobb being reputed to have a contract worth $70,000 for one year. Rogers Hornsby, another high priced man, gets but $40,000 from the Giants, and the Giants have offered Ed Roush, who has not yet signed, $13,000.

The announcement was made by Ruppert with Ruth and Ed Barrows, secretary of the Yankees, standing by him.

"It suits me," said Ruth, smiling. "I'm glad to get it off my system. It isn't as much as I wanted, but it settles things for three years and assures me $210,000."

A contract was to be drawn up this afternoon by attorneys for the Yankees and for Ruth, and it will probably be signed formally tomorrow.

Ruth said he hoped to get away for the Yankee training camp Saturday although the exact time of his departure will be dependent on the condition of Mrs. Ruth, who is ill in a hospital here.

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, March 2.—Babe Ruth came back east today to demand that the New York Yankees make him baseball's first $100,000 a year man.

As the Twentieth Century Limited bore the home run batter down the Hudson to New York, the sport world awaited with friendly interest the impending struggle between two of the ball's most colorful figures.

On the one hand was Ruth, who came from a boy's industrial school in Baltimore to be the greatest slugger the game has ever known, the greatest single box office attraction, and, in the opinion of many of his devoted admirers, the most valuable all-around player in either league.

On the other hand was Col. Jake Ruppert, brewer and baseball magnate, a genius for spending money in the right direction to turn out world champion baseball teams—also a genius for keeping his team on the right side of the ledger and not throwing money away.

The betting of the fans was on the Babe to win.

Ruppert has offered Ruth a renewal of his last year's contract at $52,000 a year. Ruth has demanded a two-year contract at $100,000 a year and a refund of $7,000 or more that he has paid in fines.

The probability was that Ruth and Ruppert would face each other across a table and fight it out—Ruth supported by his manager, Christy Walsh, and Ruppert by Ed Barrows, business manager of the Yankees.

One popular guess was that a compromise would be reached at $75,000 a year—but no less.

Ruppert was still reported in bed with a cold, but his condition was said not to be serious.

Cold, snappy weather greeted Ruth on his arrival from California, where he has been debbling in the movies and playing golf. It was from there that he sent his salary demands to the Yankees by letter, bringing him to the front of the news once again.

The Babe always has been in the news. He came back to New York once with a stomach ache that rocked the baseball world. He came back another time bearing a fine of $5,000 imposed upon him by his manager. He came back at various other times after breaking home run records and doing things that only the ball player that the Babe is could do.

But today he came back in state looking for big money—more money than is paid to the president of the United States—more than is paid to any ball player in the professional game or to any manager of any club in professional baseball.

Ruth arrived at the Grand Central at 9:40 a. m., and was met by a crowd of 500 friendly, jostling fans, who shouted greetings.

Babe went at once to Artie Mo-

Govern's gymnasium and telephoned to St. Vincent's hospital, where Mrs. Ruth is ill. The crowd followed to the gymnasium.

Ruth was expected to visit his wife before seeing Ruppert.

It was plainly a "Ruth crowd" that was gathered at the station.

Shouts of "we're for you, Babe!" came from all sides, and cries of "make 'em pay you!" echoed through the station.

New York, March 2.—(UP)—Babe Ruth came back home to New York today and while crowds acclaimed him, he made it clear to everyone in sight that he thought he ought to be worth $100,000 a year as a baseball player.

Smiling, and apparently in fine condition, the Babe stepped from the Twentieth Century Limited and heard a crowd of more than 500 fans gathered in the Grand Central station cheer and shout its support.

Cries of "make 'em pay you, Babe!" were heard over the din.

The Babe weighed 225 pounds, which is about his normal weight for the beginning of the season, and he didn't seem to have a pain or an ache or a stiff joint that might interfere with another season of knocking baseballs to far corners of ball parks.

To Err Is Human? These men do not make mistakes!

THE romance and glamour of news-reporting hover around the intrepid reporter.

But the UNITED PRESS telegraph operator deserves a paean of praise for his unfailing accuracy in circumstances when a tiny error might shake the world!

The layman knows that telegraphy is a matter of dots and dashes. What he may not know is that with it goes a system of automatic abbreviation or "shorthand" which reduces "decided" to "dcd" and "judge" to "jdg" and condenses other words in similar fashion.

Thus: "Mussolini decided today" might easily be erroneously sent as "Mussolini died today" and countless other mistakes could easily become possible.

The load of responsibility resting on the UNITED PRESS operator is terrific. To err may be human but the dictum does not apply to him. HE MUST NOT, CAN NOT permit himself to make mistakes.

And when you remember that he sometimes sends or receives some 15,000 words a day, you appreciate the strain under which he labors.

This newspaper is proud of the faithful, accurate UNITED PRESS operators who send and receive the news gathered by UNITED PRESS reporters equally faithful and accurate. Look for the line "BY UNITED PRESS" in this newspaper every day. News so marked is accurate, true and authoritative.

Avery was the chief worker for good among the Flying Aces, netting three field goals for the evening. Whitlock made two, and Bill Heikinen one, and each of the Heikinen made a free throw. For the Rainbows, Welsh was high man, with two clean baskets from mid court, plus a free throw, and Ziebell, Fitzsimmons, Lawrenz and Engbretson each made a basket.

Flying Queens 21, Crosby 4

The Flying Queens won over the Crosby girls in the preliminary game by a score of 21 to 4, with Beggs the great star.

Beggs contributed seven field goals as her share of the work. She was the mainstay of the game throughout, and the Crosby girls had no way to cope with her. Fogelstrom, Turner and Trask each made a field goal. For Crosby, Thellin made a field goal, as did Clemens. The Crosby girls played valiantly, but were no match for the superior playing of the Brainerd girls, who have played together for several seasons, with invariable success.

IMPENDING STRUGGLE BETWEEN TWO OF BASEBALL'S
COLORFUL FIGURES

New York, March 2.—Babe Ruth today agreed to sign a contract with the New York Yankees calling for a salary of $70,000 a year for three years.

Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, announced that the agreement had been reached after he and Ruth had a short talk together in Ruppert's office this afternoon.

The figure is $30,000 less per year than the $100,000 Ruth wanted. It amounts to $210,000 for the three year period.

Ruth's contract puts him along with Ty Cobb as the high salaried man of baseball. Cobb being reputed to have a contract worth $70,000 for one year. Rogers Hornsby, another high priced man, gets but $40,000 from the Giants, and the Giants have offered Ed Roush, who has not yet signed, $19,000.

The announcement was made by Ruppert with Ruth and Ed Barrows, secretary of the Yankees, standing by him.

"It suits me," said Ruth, smiling. "I'm glad to get it off my system. It isn't as much as I wanted, but it settles things for three years and assures me $210,000."

A contract was to be drawn up this afternoon by attorneys for the Yankees and for Ruth, and it will probably be signed formally tomorrow.

Ruth said he hoped to get away for the Yankee training camp Saturday although the exact time of his departure will be dependent on the condition of Mrs. Ruth, who is ill in a hospital here.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, March 2.—Babe Ruth came back east today to demand that the New York Yankees make him baseball's first $100,000 a year man.

As the Twentieth Century Limited bore the home run batter down the Hudson to New York, the sport world awaited with friendly interest the impending struggle between two of baseball's most colorful figures.

On the one hand was Ruth, who came from a boy's industrial school in Baltimore to be the greatest slugger the game has ever known, the greatest single box office attraction, and, in the opinion of many of his devoted admirers, the most valuable all-around player in either league.

On the other hand was Col. Jake Ruppert, brewer and baseball magnate, a genius for spending money in the right direction to turn out world champion baseball teams—also a genius for keeping his team on the right side of the ledger and not throwing money away.

The betting of the fans was on the Babe to win.

Ruppert has offered Ruth a renewal of his last year's contract at $52,000 a year. Ruth has demanded a two-year contract at $100,000 a year and a refund of $7,000 or more that he has paid in fines.

The probability was that Ruth and Ruppert would face each other across a table and fight it out—Ruth supported by his manager, Christy Walsh, and Ruppert by Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees.

One popular guess was that a compromise would be reached at $75,000 a year—but no less.

Ruppert was still reported in bed with a cold, but his condition was said not to be serious.

Cold, snappy weather greeted Ruth on his arrival from California, where he has been debasing in the movies and playing golf. It was from there that he sent his salary demands to the Yankees by letter, bringing him to the front of the news once again.

The Babe always has been in the news. He came back to New York once with a stomach ache that rocked the baseball world. He came back another time bearing a fine of $5,000 imposed upon him by his manager. He came back at various other times after breaking home run records and doing things that only the ball player that the Babe is could do.

But today he came back in state looking for big money—more money than is paid to the president of the United States—more than is paid to any ball player in the professional game or to any manager of any club in professional baseball.

Ruth arrived at the Grand Central at 9:40 a. m. and was met by a crowd of 500 friendly, jostling fans, who shouted greetings.

Babe went at once to Artie Mc-

Govern's gymnasium and telephoned to St. Vincent's hospital, where Mrs. Ruth is ill. The crowd followed to the gymnasium.

Ruth was expected to visit his wife before seeing Ruppert.

It was plainly a "Ruth crowd" that was gathered at the station. Shouts of "we're for you, Babe!" came from all sides, and cries of "make 'em pay you!" echoed through the station.

New York, March 2.—(UP)—Babe Ruth came back home to New York today and while crowds acclaimed him, he made it clear to everyone in sight that he thought he ought to be worth $100,000 a year as a baseball player.

Smiling, and apparently in fine condition, the Babe stepped from the Twentieth Century Limited and heard a crowd of more than 500 fans gathered in the Grand Central station cheer and shout its support.

Cries of "make 'em pay you, Babe!" were heard over the din.

The Babe weighed 225 pounds, which is about his normal weight for the beginning of the season, and he didn't seem to have a pain or an ache or a stiff joint that might interfere with another season of knocking baseballs to far corners of ball parks.

To Err Is Human?

These men do not make mistakes!

THE romance and glamour of news-reporting hover around the intrepid reporter.

But the UNITED PRESS telegraph operator deserves a paean of praise for his unflinching accuracy in circumstances when a tiny error might shake the world!

The layman knows that telegraphy is a matter of dots and dashes. What he may not know is that with it goes a system of automatic abbreviation or "shorthand" which reduces "decided" to "dcd" and "judge" to "jdg" and condenses other words in similar fashion.

Thus: "Mussolini decided today" might easily be erroneously sent as "Mussolini died today" and countless other mistakes could easily become possible.

The load of responsibility resting on the UNITED PRESS operator is terrific. To err may be human but the dictum does not apply to him. HE MUST NOT, CAN NOT permit himself to make mistakes.

And when you remember that he sometimes sends or receives some 15,000 words a day, you appreciate the strain under which he labors.

This newspaper is proud of the faithful, accurate UNITED PRESS operators who send and receive the news gathered by UNITED PRESS reporters equally faithful and accurate. Look for the line "BY UNITED PRESS" in this newspaper every day. News so marked is accurate, true and authoritative.

SENATOR HEFLIN STIRS SENATE WITH CHARGES

SAYS "KELLOGG AND SHEFFIELD LENDING FRIENDLY ASSISTANCE"

"TO THOSE TRYING TO FOMENT DISTURBANCE WITH MEXICO"

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—Secretary of State Kellogg and Ambassador James R. Sheffield at Mexico City were charged by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, in the senate today with "lending friendly assistance to those who are trying to foment a disturbance with Mexico."

Heflin renewed his attack against the Knights of Columbus and declared the concentration of marines and warships around Nicaragua were suspiciously indicative of the possibility that the United States would be involved in war with Mexico as soon as congress adjourns.

"Is it true that some of our marines have been killed in Nicaragua and they won't let it out until after congress adjourns?" asked the Alabama senator. "If any of our marines have been killed in Nicaragua congress should know about it before adjourning."

The navy denied today anyone had been killed.

Heflin criticized the state department for surrounding its latest note to Mexico with secrecy, asking: "Are they trying to keep the country from knowing what they are doing until after congress adjourns?"

Heflin complimented Chairman Borah for his recent correspondence with President Calles of Mexico, saying Borah was entitled "to get at the truth about the situation."

Yellow and Green With Silver Gray

Colors That Promise to Lead on Fashion Card; Kasha Still Popular.

Designers of dress goods for the Paris arbiters of fashion do not wait for the first robin or the budding pussywillow to tell when it is time to dream of materials for the spring season. Their wares must be completed and in the hands of the couturier while the snow is still flying.

Until it is seen what colors have been favored by the majority of the great dressmaking establishments, says a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Times, it is unsafe to say that this or that shade is to be most prominent, but various signs point to soft yellows, particularly a beautiful new tone called banana for lack of a more imaginative name. In reality this new shade has just a tinge too much red in it to be a true banana color. "Apricot" comes nearer to describing it.

Gray, especially silver gray, as well as the tans can safely be depended on to occupy their usual place of importance among the spring colors. Vert d'eau and similar light greens are to be good, it is predicted. Lighter tones of the wine shades of the winter are shown frequently as promising possibilities; but these are difficult for the average complexion to bear and are, as a result, apt to be limited in use.

For the first spring wrap, when a certain modicum of warmth is still necessary, Rodier has woven his famous kasha in a very light weight. Among the Parisian couturiers, kasha has grown in popularity until now the woolen dress or coat not made of this material excites attention for that very reason. M. Rodier now is experimenting, seeking variety by adding silk in various ways to the kasha weave. A very successful result is hindikasha, which has a silk wrap and is exactly half the weight of ordinary kasha. It is a very lovely material, drapes as softly as crepe de chine and takes dye satisfactorily.

Another silk and wool combination called mouslikasha is most effective when printed, as the threads have been twisted a bit to give a high sheen. It is this mouslikasha that bears the gold embroidery of which M. Rodier is fond. For the spring season, coin dots of gold and larger designs have taken the place of the little Chinese alphabetical figures of his winter collection.

An all-wool material, almost as light and supple as a fine handkerchief linen and resembling linen in that it is woven with the same uneven threads, is toilikasha, another of this manufacturer's products. Certain charming patterns in this goods are embroidered with tiny flowers in self-colored silks. It would seem that floral patterns this year are to be either very small and quaint or else exaggeratedly large.

Among the silk coatings are shown various heavy crepe satins with a higher luster than we have known for some time, and a new coating called flamenza that resembles a crepe Ottoman but is distinctive in that it comes in "shot" colors. Changeable or "shot" colors, once associated only with taffetas, have been achieved successfully in every type of silk weave from georgette to heavy coatings and should find their vogue increased accordingly.

Plain crepe de chine in gown width have developed new types of borders for the spring.

HEAVY GALE AT NORFOLK

BLOWS WATER INTO WATER-FRONT DISTRICT, FLOODING STREETS

Norfolk, Va., March 2.—(UP)—A gale of 60 miles per hour in velocity struck this seaport city shortly before 10 A. M. today. The tremendous wind blew water into the waterfront district, flooding several streets along the Elizabeth river, which flows into Chesapeake Bay here, according to early reports.

Weather bureau observers a few hours before predicted "the worst gale in years."

Water was two feet deep in sections of the city near the river, and traffic was completely tied up in all parts of the city.

Norfolk is a city of approximately 174,000 population, located near the mouth of Chesapeake Bay and near the point where the Elizabeth, York and James rivers enter it. It is one of the leading coal export ports of the country, and widespread naval and military posts are located close by.

At 11 A. M., with the wind still increasing, City Hall avenue, in the center of the downtown business district, was flooded a foot deep with the storm-driven river waters.

Norfolk, Va., March 2.—A 40-mile an hour wind swept tide flooded low sections of this seaport with from one to two feet of water today, hampering street cars, motors and pedestrians at many points.

City Hall avenue, in the center of the business district, was inundated with one foot of water.

Northeast storm warnings had been posted since 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the disturbances centered today off Hatteras where there is a wind velocity of 52 miles an hour.

Norfolk also experienced its heaviest snow of the winter. At 1 o'clock this afternoon the streets were blanketed with six inches of snow.

Salmon Prevents Goitre

SALMON as a preventive of goitre is one of the newest discoveries of science, and one which is attracting unusual interest, due to the recent spread of goitre, not only among adults but also among school children.

That salmon eaten plentifully will prevent goitre has been known for some time, since that fish contains iodine, the lack of which is one of the causes of goitre both in men and animals. There is a large goitrous region in the United States which includes the territory neighboring the Great Lakes, and much of the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Utah, Colorado, Eastern Oregon and Washington.

Physicians have discovered that when the gland has not enlarged but is starved for iodine, the provision of iodine will prevent goitre, but when the gland has already enlarged, the advice of a specialist should be obtained before taking iodine.

A recent investigation of the iodine content of canned salmon has been engaged in by the Seattle Laboratory of the National Canners' Association and the study has revealed that this commodity is particularly high in iodine.

Housewives will do well to serve salmon several times each week in some of its various tempting forms. As a meat course, a salmon steak taken from the can and heated, served with butter sauce and garnished with parsley is a very appetizing dish. For entrées and salads it is one of the most colorful and delightful dishes on the menu.

Two Principles

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL discovered an electrical principle upon which a great communications art has been founded.

Those who undertook to give practical value to his discovery likewise left to their successors a principle of service, that has been developed into an intercommunicating system of over 17,000,000 telephones.

Both of these principles were built upon and developed with the same objective,—that of enabling men to talk one to another easily, conveniently, cheaply. With nation-wide telephone service already an accomplished fact, these principles still continue to act and react upon each other, producing new ideals of service, new goals toward which to strive.

SENATOR HEFLIN STIRS SENATE WITH CHARGES

SAYS "KELLOGG AND SHEFFIELD LENDING FRIENDLY ASSISTANCE"

"TO THOSE TRYING TO FOMENT DISTURBANCE WITH MEXICO"

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—Secretary of State Kellogg and Ambassador James R. Sheffield at Mexico City were charged by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, in the senate today with "lending friendly assistance to those who are trying to foment a disturbance with Mexico."

Heflin renewed his attack against the Knights of Columbus and declared the concentration of marines and warships around Nicaragua were suspiciously indicative of the possibility that the United States would be involved in war with Mexico as soon as congress adjourns.

"Is it true that some of our marines have been killed in Nicaragua and they won't let it out until after congress adjourns?" asked the Alabama senator. "If any of our marines have been killed in Nicaragua congress should know about it before adjourning."

The navy denied today anyone had been killed.

Heflin criticized the state department for surrounding its latest note to Mexico with secrecy, asking: "Are they trying to keep the country from knowing what they are doing until after congress adjourns?"

Heflin complimented Chairman Borah for his recent correspondence with President Calles of Mexico, saying Borah was entitled "to get at the truth about the situation."

CHARGE MADE THAT VETERAN IS IMPOSTER

Washington, March 2.—(UP)—A charge that Jerry Tarbot, who claims to have lost his identity in the world war, in an imposter, was made before the house veterans' committee today by Chairman Johnson, republican, South Dakota.

Johnson said Tarbot's real name was Alexander Dubois, Jr. He said Tarbot had different aliases.

Johnson said he was positive the following facts were true:

"That Tarbot's father is a chef in a hotel in Cuba.

"That he was married under the name of Howard Noble to Flora Lange in Toledo, Ohio, in December, 1917.

"That his mother's name was Mary Richards Riley.

"That he has an aunt by the name of Riley in New York.

"That he was married first in Schenectady, N. Y.

"That he was arrested in San Francisco in 1922 for automobile theft.

"That he was a draft dodger."

TEMPORARY CAPITOL OF WEST VIRGINIA BURNED TO GROUND

Charleston, W. Va., March 2.—(UP)—The temporary capitol of West Virginia burned to the ground this afternoon.

The large two story wooden structure which has been used to house the state offices since the state capitol burned down six years ago was consumed by the flames in 20 minutes.

The fire was discovered shortly before 3 o'clock in one wing of the building and before fire equipment could reach the scene the entire building was in flames.

KILL BILLS GRANTING WOMEN EQUAL RIGHTS WITH MEN

Albany N. Y., March 2.—(UP)—All bills granting women equal rights with men were killed by the assembly judiciary committee today. The bills included those giving women the right to serve on juries; providing that a husband has no claim for damages and injuries suffered by his wife; permitting the wife to register as a voter for her own domicile and giving the wife equal power with the husband over children.

The committee also killed the Jenks bill to legitimize children born out of wedlock.

UNCOVER RUINS OF OLYMPIC TEMPLE OF JOVE IN SICILY

Girgenti, Sicily, March 2.—(UP)—Ruins of the Olympic temple of Jove have been uncovered here by Captain Hardcastle, a wealthy English archaeologist. The temple was considered as one of the wonders of the world. Fragments of statues of gigantic size also were found, and Hardcastle said he hoped they could be reconstructed.

CHRISTIANSON TAKES UNDER ADVISEMENT EXTRADITION REQUEST

Minneapolis, March 2.—(UP)—Governor Theodore Christianson of Minnesota today took under advisement the request for extradition to Indiana of two Minneapolis men wanted in connection with the robbery of the J. F. Wild and Company bank, Indianapolis.

The governor referred to the attorney general a question of law in the extradition cases of Samuel J. Kroman, attorney, and Albin M. Daniels, mechanic, who were said to have sold part of the bonds stolen from the Indianapolis.

TWO MINERS KILLED UNDER FALL OF ROCK

Latrobe, Pa., March 2.—(UP)—Two miners of the Ridge Coal Co. were killed today when they were buried under a fall of rock in the entry of the mine in which they were working, diana bank to Minneapolis banks.

Attorneys for the defense declared that no evidence had been produced showing that the two men ever had been in Indianapolis.

12 KILLED, MANY INJURED IN VILLAGE IN INDIA

Calcutta, March 2.—(UP)—Twelve persons were reported killed and several injured today at the village of Poonabilla in a riot between Moslems and Hindus.

Police used guns in quelling the disturbance.

Yellow and Green With Silver Gray

Colors That Promise to Lead on Fashion Card; Kasha Still Popular.

Designers of dress goods for the Paris arbiters of fashion do not wait for the first robin or the budding pussywillow to tell when it is time to dream of materials for the spring season. Their wares must be completed and in the hands of the couturier while the snow is still flying.

Until it is seen what colors have been favored by the majority of the great dressmaking establishments, says a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Times, it is unsafe to say that this or that shade is to be most prominent, but various signs point to soft yellows, particularly a beautiful new tone called banana for lack of a more imaginative name. In reality this new shade has just a tinge too much red in it to be a true banana color. "Apricot" comes nearer to describing it.

Gray, especially silver gray, as well as the tans can safely be depended on to occupy their usual place of importance among the spring colors. Vert d'eau and similar light greens are to be good, it is predicted. Lighter tones of the wine shades of the winter are shown frequently as promising possibilities; but these are difficult for the average complexion to bear and are, as a result, apt to be limited in use.

For the first spring wrap, when a certain modicum of warmth is still necessary, Rodier has woven his famous kasha in a very light weight. Among the Parisian couturiers, kasha has grown in popularity until now the woolen dress or coat not made of this material excites attention for that very reason. M. Rodier now is experimenting, seeking variety by adding silk in various ways to the kasha weave. A very successful result is hindikasha, which has a silk wrap and is exactly half the weight of ordinary kasha. It is a very lovely material, drapes as softly as crepe de chine and takes dye satisfactorily.

Another silk and wool combination called mouslikasha is most effective when printed, as the threads have been twisted a bit to give a high sheen. It is this mouslikasha that bears the gold embroidery of which M. Rodier is fond. For the spring season, coin dots of gold and larger designs have taken the place of the little Chinese alphabetical figures of his winter collection.

An all-wool material, almost as light and supple as a fine handkerchief linen and resembling linen in that it is woven with the same uneven threads, is toilikasha, another of this manufacturer's products. Certain charming patterns in this goods are embroidered with tiny flowers in self-colored silks. It would seem that floral patterns this year are to be either very small and quaint or else exaggeratedly large.

Among the silk coatings are shown various heavy crepe satins with a higher luster than we have known for some time, and a new coating called flamenga that resembles a crepe Ottoman but is distinctive in that it comes in "shot" colors. Changeable or "shot" colors, once associated only with taffetas, have been achieved successfully in every type of silk weave from georgette to heavy coatings and should find their vogue increased accordingly.

Plain crepe de chine in gown width have developed new types of borders for the spring.

HEAVY GALE AT NORFOLK

BLOWS WATER INTO WATER-FRONT DISTRICT, FLOODING STREETS

Norfolk, Va., March 2.—(UP)—A gale of 60 miles per hour in velocity struck this seaport city shortly before 10 A. M. today. The tremendous wind blew water into the waterfront district, flooding several streets along the Elizabeth river, which flows into Chesapeake Bay here, according to early reports.

Weather bureau observers a few hours before predicted "the worst gale in years."

Water was two feet deep in sections of the city near the river, and traffic was completely tied up in all parts of the city.

Norfolk is a city of approximately 174,000 population, located near the mouth of Chesapeake Bay and near the point where the Elizabeth, York and James rivers enter it. It is one of the leading coal export ports of the country, and widespread naval and military posts are located close by.

At 11 A. M., with the wind still increasing, City Hall avenue, in the center of the downtown business district, was flooded a foot deep with the storm-driven river waters.

Norfolk, Va., March 2.—A 40-mile an hour wind swept tide flooded low sections of this seaport with from one to two feet of water today, hampering street cars, motors and pedestrians at many points.

City Hall avenue, in the center of the business district, was inundated with one foot of water.

Northeast storm warnings had been posted since 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the disturbances centered today off Hatteras where there is a wind velocity of 52 miles an hour.

Norfolk also experienced its heaviest snow of the winter. At 1 o'clock this afternoon the streets were blanketed with six inches of snow.

Salmon Prevents Goitre

SALMON as a preventive of goitre is one of the newest discoveries of science, and one which is attracting unusual interest, due to the recent spread of goitre, not only among adults but also among school children.

That salmon eaten plentifully will prevent goitre has been known for some time, since that fish contains iodine, the lack of which is one of the causes of goitre both in men and animals. There is a large goitrous region in the United States which includes the territory neighboring the Great Lakes, and much of the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Utah, Colorado, Eastern Oregon and Washington.

Two Principles

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL discovered an electrical principle upon which a great communications art has been founded.

Those who undertook to give practical value to his discovery likewise left to their successors a principle of service, that has been developed into an intercommunicating system of over 17,000,000 telephones.

Both of these principles were built upon and developed with the same objective,—that of enabling men to talk one to another easily, conveniently, cheaply. With nation-wide telephone service already an accomplished fact, these principles still continue to act and react upon each other, producing new ideals of service, new goals toward which to strive.

Car Struck by G. N. Gas Electric Train at Crossing Yesterday

The condition of C. J. Schiel, confined in the St. Rafael's hospital at St. Cloud, remains unchanged today. Mrs. Schiel, wife of the injured man reported this morning on her return from St. Cloud.

C. J. Schiel, 115 First avenue N. E., Brainerd, 55 years, was badly injured yesterday when the car he was riding in with his son, Carl P., was struck by a Great Northern gas electric train at a St. Cloud crossing.

The car, a Chevrolet touring, being driven by the son on the return trip from Minneapolis to Brainerd, was considerably damaged by the impact, overturning a short way from the track. The son escaped uninjured.

Mr. Schiel received injuries about the head and body.

The St. Cloud Times in their account of the accident states:

"Onlookers said the accident was caused when Schiel, who was apparently overtaking a passenger bus, passed the bus, but dashed onto the track directly in front of the oncoming electric train. The train had slowed down considerably as it was entering the city."

The St. Cloud Journal Press states: "The son evidently failed to see the gas electric train approaching or to heed the whistle and the front of the car struck the pilot of the train, the two arriving at the same time at the crossing."

Four Grandchildren Lost Lives With Him in Hibbing Conflagration

O. H. Basford, a former Brainerd resident, who made his home with his son Sam Basford of Hibbing and who lost his life in a fire which destroyed the home on Tuesday morning, leaves to mourn his loss five children. Mrs. Frank Sundine of Brainerd, Mrs. Frank Scott of Duluth, Mrs. F. H. Wellon of Fort Dodge, Ia., Sam and John Basford of Hibbing, six grandchildren, a niece and five nephews. He was 77 years old.

Four grandchildren lost their lives in the fire with him, Chas. Basford aged 9, John 7, Margaret 6 and Reva Belle 5.

The mother, Mrs. Dora Basford was in a critical condition at the hospital. Mr. Basford was badly burned in his attempts to save the children and their grandfather.

The funeral of the children will take place Thursday afternoon from the Methodist church at Hibbing. Rev. Lampert officiating. The remains will be laid to rest in Maple Hill cemetery.

The funeral of the grandfather will be held from the Seventh Day Adventist church, Rev. Reubendath officiating.

The remains will be sent to Brainerd for burial and will be interred besides his wife who predeceased him in Feb. 22, 7 years ago.

The United Press in a dispatch today announced the death of Mrs. Sam Basford, 33 years, increasing the death toll in the farm home fire to six. She was the mother of the four children and daughter-in-law of O. H. Basford, who perished in the blaze.

The mother and her four children will be buried together at Hibbing following joint services in the Methodist church. The body of the elder Basford will be shipped to Brainerd for interment on Friday, the dispatch states.

Mrs. Basford died in a hospital at Hibbing during the early morning hours, from burns she received before she was carried from the blazing home, by her husband. Frozen feet were found when she wandered in the snow during the search for the children's bodies were said to have contributed to her death, the dispatch reads.

Carnival Spirit Was Rampant; Confetti and Favors Distributed

One of the most successful affairs of the season was staged last night at the Finn hall, given under the auspices of the Girls' Independent Basketball team. About seventy couples were present and enjoyed the peppy music furnished by Lou's band. Carnival spirit ran rampant, confetti and favors were distributed about 11 o'clock and a most congenial atmosphere was apparent.

The girls of the team wish to thank the many patrons for the splendid support they received, the officers of the police force, who were present, and last but not least Mrs. Ritenrath and the members of her orchestra, for the cooperation they gave the girls in staging their dance.

With the proceeds derived from this affair, the girls are now able to make a creditable payment on the new, snappy suits they have recently purchased, and again they wish to express their appreciation to everyone for the support given them in this effort.

The funeral was conducted yesterday afternoon in Minneapolis of William Bouma, aged 12 years, son of O. J. Bouma, and Mrs. Maude Bouma who passed away Sunday evening at the Abbott hospital, Minneapolis, following an illness of about one month. Word was received here today.

Surviving besides his parents are Kenneth, John and Miss Margaret.

CITY ELECTION

ON APRIL 5

Final Day for Filing at Office of City Clerk, March 26

NO EXCITEMENT YET

Voters to Decide on Three Charter Amendments and City Offices

Very little excitement is in evidence at this time over the forthcoming Brainerd city election to be held on April 5. As yet no candidates have filed at the office of the city clerk. It is reported by Mrs. E. T. Fleener, the closing day of filing is Saturday, March 26.

Voters will vote on three charter amendments, city officials, one alderman from each ward, and members of the school board whose terms of office expire.

Officials are elected to two years in the following offices: mayor, city treasurer, city assessor, city attorney, municipal judge, special judge. Terms of the following city aldermen expire: Andrew Wesley, first ward; W. E. Lewis, second ward; C. Eliza, third ward; E. Ritari, fourth ward; R. H. Paine, fifth ward.

The aldermen are elected for terms of four years.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN, CONTENTS

Does Damage Estimated Close at $2,500 Yesterday Morning on South Seventh Street

CAUSE IS UNKNOWN

Barn Owned by Mrs. Joseph Brecht, Popcorn Wagon, Value at $1,500

Fire destroyed the barn valued at $1,000 at 1227 South Seventh street and contents which included a popcorn wagon valued at approximately $1,500 yesterday morning at 2:45 o'clock. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

The barn was owned by Mrs. Joseph Brecht while the popcorn wagon was owned by Rudolph Brecht.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Flames had gained such headway before the fire was noticed that it was impossible to save the barn and the contents.

The barn had been used as a storage for cars but no cars were in the building at the time of the fire.

FIRE VICTIM TO BE BURIED HERE

O. H. Basford is Former Brainerd Resident; Wife Died Seven Years Ago

MRS. F. SUNDINE IS DAUGHTER

Four Grandchildren Lost Lives With Him in Hibbing Conflagration

O. H. Basford, a former Brainerd resident, who made his home with his son Sam Basford of Hibbing and who lost his life in a fire which destroyed the home on Tuesday morning, leaves to mourn his loss five children. Mrs. Frank Sundine of Brainerd, Mrs. Frank Scott of Duluth, Mrs. F. H. Wellon of Fort Dodge, Ia., Sam and John Basford of Hibbing, six grandchildren, a niece and five nephews. He was 77 years old.

Four grandchildren lost their lives in the fire with him. Chas. Basford, aged 9, John 7, Margaret 6 and Reva Belle 5.

The mother, Mrs. Dora Basford was in a critical condition at the hospital. Mr. Basford was badly burned in his attempts to save the children and their grandfather.

The funeral of the children will take place Thursday afternoon from the Methodist church at Hibbing. Rev. Lampert officiating. The remains will be laid to rest in Maple Hill cemetery.

The funeral of the grandfather will be held from the Seventh Day Adventist church, Rev. Reubendahl officiating. The remains will be sent to Brainerd for burial and will be interred besides his wife who predeceased him in Feb. 22, 7 years ago.

The United Press in a dispatch today announced the death of Mrs. Sam Basford, 33 years, increasing the death toll in the farm home fire to six. She was the mother of the four children and daughter-in-law of O. H. Basford, who perished in the blaze.

The mother and her four children will be buried together at Hibbing following joint services in the Methodist church. The body of the elder Basford will be shipped to Brainerd for interment on Friday, the dispatch states.

Mrs. Basford died in a hospital at Hibbing during the early morning hours, from burns she received before she was carried from the blazing home, her husband. Frozen feet were found when she wandered about the street during the search for her children's bodies were said to have contributed to her death, the dispatch reads.

Coughs Stopped Almost Instantly

A famous physician's prescription called Thoxine relieves the most stubborn coughs that otherwise would hang on for weeks. Acts on new theory, relieves the inflammation and irritation which is almost always the cause of the cough, and stops it like magic. Thoxine is equally good for sore throat for which purpose it is far superior to gargles. Contains no dope, chloroform or harmful drugs. Once used you will never be without it. Pleasant taste and safe for children. Remember one swallow stops night coughs or sore throat within 15 minutes or money back. 35c, 60c and $1.00. Sold by Skauge Drug Co. and all good drug stores. —Adt

ROAD CONTRACTOR BURIAL

Last Rites for P. M. Ostrand Held Yesterday in Minneapolis

Final rites for P. M. Ostrand, well known road contractor, of the firm of Ostrand and Hallett were conducted yesterday afternoon in Minneapolis.

The outstanding work done by the firm last year was the construction of the pavement from Belle Prairie to Brainerd on Highway No. 27 linking Brainerd with the Twin Cities and beyond with a direct paved highway.

Among those at the funeral were many of his friends who attended the University of Minnesota with him in the years 1907, 08, 09, when he played right guard on the football team.

Besides his widow, two sisters and one brother survive him.

LOUD BAND PLAYED

Carnival Spirit Was Rampant; Confetti and Favors Distributed

One of the most successful affairs of the season was staged last night at the Finn hall, given under the auspices of the Girls' Independent Basketball team. About seventy couples were present and enjoyed the happy music furnished by Lou's band. Carnival spirit ran rampant, confetti and favors were distributed about 11 o'clock and a most congenial atmosphere was apparent.

The girls of the team wish to thank the many patrons for the splendid support they received, the officers of the police force, who were present, and last but not least Mrs. Ritenath and the members of her orchestra, for the cooperation they gave the girls in staging their dance.

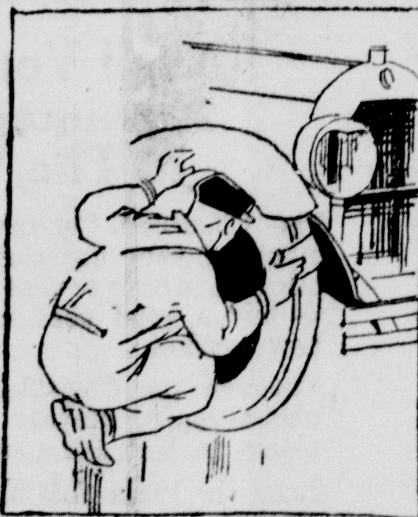

With the proceeds derived from this affair, the girls are now able to make a creditable payment on the new, snappy suits they have recently purchased, and again they wish to express their appreciation to everyone for the support given them in this effort.

SEEK TO LOAN PRIVATELY TO THE FRENCH

MANY BANKERS IN UNITED STATES WANT EMBARGO LIFTED

AUTHORITATIVELY ANNOUNCED AT THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, March 2.—Many bankers in the United States have appealed to the administration to lift the embargo prohibiting private loans to France. It was said authoritatively at the treasury today.

A delegation of financiers recently called on Secretary of State Kellogg, seeking removal of the ban. After the conference the administration, however, reiterated its stand that no loans to French interests would be sanctioned until after the French parliament ratifies the war debt.

Announcement that France intends to pay $30,000,000 annually on the $4,000,000,000 obligation to America—a sum equivalent to payments called for in the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement—is expected to encourage bankers to renew their protest.

Financiers say American money is being loaned to London bankers at 4 to 5 per cent interest and placed by the British in France at a much higher rate.

A few bankers threaten to make loans to France without administration approval. They contend no difficulty would be encountered even though official approval was lacking.

Confidence was expressed in some circles that the ban would be lifted in the near future no matter what action is taken by France toward ratification of the pact.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon said, however, that the administration's policy is unchanged.

The French government is said to need a loan of about $100,000,000. The country has been making large gold and sterling purchases and therefore is not in need of a larger sum.

CONSTANT WAR ON THE CLOTHES MOTH

Insect Pest Always Enemy of Mankind.

The necessities of life for civilized man are food, shelter and clothing. The insignificant clothes moth has for thousands of years affected the customs of human beings by attacking one of the necessities of life, wool, the principal material that man uses to conserve the heat of his body. writes Prof. Harold S. Colton in the Scientific Monthly. That the moth was a pest to the ancient Hebrews the Bible testifies in many places, but in no place does it give a hint as to how the people reacted toward the moth, except in horror.

Aristotle, at the time of Alexander the Great, in his "History of Animals," book 5, chapter 26, however, does give us a hint. "There are other small animals," says he, "... some of which occur in wool and woolen goods, as the sea (clothes moth), and these animals come in the greatest numbers when the wool is dusty." We infer by this that the housekeeper in the Greece of Alexander the Great brushed clothes to keep out the moths.

From the writings of that good old Roman country squire, Marcus Porcius Cato, known in history as the eldier Cato, we learn that clothes stored in a box in which amaranth has been rubbed will be safe from moths. I wondered for a while what amaranth could be, until in the works of the Roman agriculturist, Varro, I found that it is a substance prepared from the watery dregs of olives after the oil has been extracted. This liquid, after being reduced by boiling to one-third its bulk, is recommended as a disinfectant, a sheep dip, a cattle food and a fertilizer—surely a handy thing to have around the house.

With Pliny (70 A. D.) the methods of conservation became more and more fanciful. "A suit of clothes placed upon a coffin will be forever proof against the teeth of moths." Recipes of this sort were common in the Middle Ages. A few dead Spanish flies (a kind of beetle) suspended in a house will drive away moths, while clothes "wrapped in the skin of a lion have nothing to fear." We have no way of judging how many housewives followed these methods. In France, about 1737, we know from Beaumarchais that it was the custom of housewives to beat and brush their hangings at least once a year and store their clothes in boxes with pine cones.

Groundhog Superstition
According to superstition, the groundhog, or woodchuck, leaves his winter home on Candlemas day and if he can see his shadow, he returns to his hole and sleeps some more, because he knows that winter is still unbroken. But if it is cloudy, and he cannot see his shadow, he knows that the worst of winter is over.

Just when the groundhog idea started is not known, but the superstition that the weather on Candlemas day

Don't Envy
Robust Health

Get It Yourself Through Scientific Stimulation

Food is the sole source of life, of health, of vitality. A robust physique, tireless energy, the full enjoyment of every hour of living depend on the proper assimilation by your system of the foods you put into your stomach.

If the mouth, stomach and other vital glands are not doing their duty, you cannot achieve good health. You are bound to be "run down," nervous, tired all the time.

A remarkable stimulant- tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before your next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy. —Adv.

is an indication of the weather for the rest of the winter is too ancient a superstition to be discarded. It has prevailed in Europe for centuries. The Germans have a saying that "The shepherd would rather see a wolf in his stable on Candlemas day than the sun."

Royalty in "Trade"

Travelling about Germany with models for a Parisian fashion house is the fate of Countess Olga Loris-Melikov, granddaughter of Czar Alexander II of Russia, and also of the Russian poet, Alexander Pushkin. Had the fortunes of war been different she might today be crown princess of the kingdom of Flanders, the creation of which was planned by the Germans in 1916. Countess Melikov, nee Morenberg, goes to Germany from time to time to show the models of a house owned and run by Russian emigre aristocrats living in Paris. She makes regular stops in Berlin, Frankfurt and Wiesbaden, besides paying occasional visits to other centers, and everywhere manages to dispose of orders running into high figures.

Andrew Jackson's Politics

Andrew Jackson is popularly supposed to have started the modern Democratic party. It was to a large extent the successor of the Jeffersonians. But Old Hickory himself did not apply the name "Democratic" to his followers. During his Presidency and after his retirement to the Hermitage, in all his correspondence he called himself a Republican and spoke of his party as the Republican party.—Pathfinder Magazine.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharge or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. —Adv.

SEEK TO LOAN PRIVATELY TO THE FRENCH

MANY BANKERS IN UNITED STATES WANT EMBARGO LIFTED

AUTHORITATIVELY ANNOUNCED AT THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 2. — Many bankers in the United States have appealed to the administration to lift the embargo prohibiting private loans to France, it was said authoritatively at the treasury today.

A delegation of financiers recently called on Secretary of State Kellogg, seeking removal of the ban. After the conference the administration, however, reiterated its stand that no loans to French interests would be sanctioned until after the French parliament ratifies the war debt.

Announcement that France intends to pay $30,000,000 annually on the $4,000,000,000 obligation to America—a sum equivalent to payments called for in the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement—is expected to encourage bankers to renew their protest.

Financiers say American money is being loaned to London bankers at 4 to 5 per cent interest and placed by the British in France at a much higher rate.

A few bankers threaten to make loans to France without administration approval. They contend no difficulty would be encountered even though official approval was lacking.

Confidence was expressed in some circles that the ban would be lifted in the near future no matter what action is taken by France toward ratification of the pact.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon said, however, that the administration's policy is unchanged.

The French government is said to need a loan of about $100,000,000. The country has been making large gold and sterling purchases and therefore is not in need of a larger sum.

CONSTANT WAR ON THE CLOTHES MOTH

Insect Pest Always Enemy of Mankind.

The necessities of life for civilized man are food, shelter and clothing. The insignificant clothes moth has for thousands of years affected the customs of human beings by attacking one of the necessities of life, wool, the principal material that man uses to conserve the heat of his body. writes Prof. Harold S. Colton in the Scientific Monthly. That the moth was a pest to the ancient Hebrews the Bible testifies in many places, but in no place does it give a hint as to how the people reacted toward the moth, except in horror.

Aristotle, at the time of Alexander the Great, in his "History of Animals," book 5, chapter 26, however, does give us a hint. "There are other small animals," says he, "... some of which occur in wool and woolen goods, as the sea (clothes) moth, and these animals come in the greatest numbers when the wool is dusty." We infer by this that the housekeeper in the Greece of Alexander the Great brushed clothes to keep out the moths.

From the writings of that good old Roman country squire, Marcus Porcius Cato, known in history as the elder Cato, we learn that clothes stored in a box in which amaran has been rubbed will be safe from moths. I wondered for a while what amaran could be, until in the works of the Roman agriculturist, Varro, I found that it is a substance prepared from the watery drops of olives after the oil has been extracted. This liquid, after being reduced by boiling to one-third its bulk, is recommended as a disinfectant, a sheep dip, a cattle food and a fertilizer—surely a handy thing to have around the house.

With Pliny (70 A. D.) the methods of conservation became more and more fanciful. "A suit of clothes placed upon a coffin will be forever proof against the teeth of moths." Recipes of this sort were common in the Middle Ages. A few dead Spanish flies (a kind of beetle) suspended in a house will drive away moths, while clothes "wrapped in the skin of a lion have nothing to fear." We have no way of judging how many housewives followed these methods. In France, about 1737, we know from Reaumur that it was the custom of housewives to beat and brush their hangings at least once a year and store their clothes in boxes with pine cones.

Groundhog Superstition

According to superstition, the groundhog, or woodchuck, leaves his winter home on Candlemas day and if he can see his shadow, he returns to his hole and sleeps some more, because he knows that winter is still unbroken. But if it is cloudy, and he cannot see his shadow, he knows that the worst of winter is over.

Just when the groundhog idea started is not known, but the superstition that the weather on Candlemas day

Don't Envy Robust Health

Get It Yourself Through Scientific Stimulation

Food is the sole source of life, of health, of vitality. A robust physique, tireless energy, the full enjoyment of every hour of living depend on the proper assimilation by your system of the foods you put into your stomach.

If the mouth, stomach and other vital glands are not doing their duty, you cannot achieve good health. You are bound to be "run down," nervous, tired all the time.

A remarkable stimulant- tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before your next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy. —Advt.

is an indication of the weather for the rest of the winter is too ancient a superstition to be discarded. It has prevailed in Europe for centuries. The Germans have a saying that "The shepherd would rather see a wolf in his stable on Candlemas day than the sun."

Royalty in "Trade"

Travelling about Germany with models for a Parisian fashion house is the fate of Countess Olga Loris-Melikov, granddaughter of Czar Alexander II of Russia, and also of the Russian poet, Alexander Pushkin. Had the fortunes of war been different she might today be crown princess of the kingdom of Flanders, the creation of which was planned by the Germans in 1916. Countess Melikov, nee Merenberg, goes to Germany from time to time to show the models of a house owned and run by Russian emigre aristocrats living in Paris. She makes regular stops in Berlin, Frankfurt and Wiesbaden, besides paying occasional visits to other centers, and everywhere manages to dispose of orders running into high figures.

Andrew Jackson's Politics

Andrew Jackson is popularly supposed to have started the modern Democratic party. It was to a large extent the successor of the Jeffersonians. But Old Hickory himself did not apply the name "Democratic" to his followers. During his Presidency and after his retirement to the Hermitage, in all his correspondence he called himself a Republican and spoke of his party as the Republican party.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Good News for Pretty Skins

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Kidneys cause backache! No! Your backache is caused by lumbago, rheumatism or a strain and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating St. Jacobs Oil. Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a 35 cent bottle of St. Jacobs Oil from your druggist. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

In use for 65 years for lumbago, backache, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains. Absolutely harmless. Doesn't burn the skin. —Advt.

Meaning of Girl's Names

The name Olive is simply that of the pretty tree of the Mediterranean and other warm countries. Dorothy is a name of Greek origin, and means literally "gift of God." Anna comes from Hebrew and Greek sources, and signifies "grace," while Mildred is from the Anglo-Saxon, the parent of our own language, and means "mild one."

Benefit of Title

A fool, indeed, has great need of a title; it teaches men to call him count or duke, and thus forget his proper name of fool.—J. Crown.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will be open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache, no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharge or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. —Advt.
